

RICH FARMER
MYSTERIOUSLY MURDERED

His Daughter, Seeing His Prostrate Form on a Woodpile, Rushes to Him and Finds Him Dying—Never Regains Consciousness.

OF LOUIS BECKMAN

Inquest Develops Nothing—The Sheriff and His Deputies Are Trying to Find Effective Line on the Crime—Family Can Offer No Explanation.

Louis Beckman, a wealthy farmer, church trustee and prominent citizen of Madison County, Illinois, is dead from a fractured skull, received in a mysterious manner at his home place, a mile and a half east of Alhambra, a station on the Clover Leaf, near Edwardsville.

Madison County officials and the dead man's family believe that he was murdered; but by whom and for what cause they do not know.

Also they are ignorant as to the character of the weapon used in inflicting the death wound. The deep hole just over his right ear, round in shape and penetrating the skull and entering to the brain, puzzles both the physicians who attended him and the officers who are investigating the case.

The family say Mr. Beckman had no enemies; there are no indications of robbery; there were no signs of a struggle; and there were no footprints that could not be accounted for.

No weapons were found near by to show the agency employed, and there has so far been discovered no testimony which can be counted upon to yield up the story of the crime.

Mr. Beckman was found by his daughter, Bertha, in the yard back of his home Saturday afternoon. He was lying upon a woodpile. His position impressed the daughter as being unnatural. She approached and called to him. When he did not answer she asked him if he was ill.

A moment later she saw blood issuing from the hole in his head, screamed for help, and carried him into the house.

He did not regain consciousness, and died Tuesday afternoon. His funeral was held Thursday at the German Evangelical Church in Alhambra.

Immediately upon his death, the coroner's office at Edwardsville was notified. Both Coroner Chas. S. Tuffe and the deputy coroner at Edwardsville, which is 15 miles west of the scene of the murder, were prevented by other business from holding an inquest, and Police Magistrate Wm. Schure of Alhambra was called upon to act.

Had No Enemies.
Relatives Say.
At the inquest an effort was made to solve the mystery, but little information was gained except as to the finding of the body and the apparent absence of a motive for murder. The verdict of the coroner's jury was that death was due to a fracture of the skull from an unknown cause.

Sheriff Crowe of Madison County was in Alton Thursday. Deputy Sheriff John Dillon, at Edwardsville, said that the tragedy would be thoroughly investigated at once and every effort made to discover whether death was due to a murderous assault or to an unaccountable accident.

Mr. Beckman was one of the wealthiest farmers in the eastern part of Madison County. He owned a large amount of real estate, and his farms were among the best in southern Illinois.

He had been married twice. He left a widow and eight children, all of whom save one, Lewis, who lives in Denver, are residents of Madison County. The children are:

Seigel Beckman, living in Alhambra; Mrs. Lizzie Mindrup of Alhambra, Lewis Beckman of Denver, Colo.; Fred Beckman of Alhambra, Mrs. Emma Morton of Edwardsville, Mrs. Louise Oswald of Alhambra, Misses Minnie and Bertha Beckman, who live at the home place, and William Beckman, the youngest, who is attending a Chicago college.

It is declared that Mr. Beckman did not have an enemy. He was 66 years old, had lived in the neighborhood for 22 years and was highly esteemed.

The officers are convinced that no attempt was made at robbery. They are quite sure that if robbery was intended the would-be robber was frightened away before he could complete his work.

WEALTHY MANUFACTURER
WEDS HIS STENOGRAPHER

John R. Williams, Sr., President of the Libby & Williams Company and Well-Known Clubman, Goes to Kansas City to Marry.

John R. Williams, Sr., president of the Libby & Williams Paper Co., treasurer of the Mercantile Club and member of the Merchants' Exchange, went to Kansas City Wednesday to wed Miss Dorothy Jorgensen, who was formerly his stenographer.

Mr. Williams, who resides at 554 Page boulevard, is 40 years old and has a family of grown children. His first wife died several years ago.

Miss Jorgensen is a daughter of a prosperous farmer at Clay City, Ill. She is said to be 25 years old.

The news of Mr. Williams' wedding created much interest among his business associates when it became known Thursday.

It appears that Mr. Williams took an odd method of communicating his matrimonial intentions to the other members of his firm. He departed for Kansas City Tuesday evening, but before doing so wrote a note to Mr. Bull stating that he would marry Miss Jorgensen there Wednesday.

Miss Jorgensen, while employed by the paper company, officiated as Mr. Williams' personal stenographer and it was while dictating business letters to her that the story goes, that the veteran business man fell in love with the Illinois maiden.

A few months ago she resigned her position and returned to her home. It is said that she went to Kansas City with relatives and there met Mr. Williams.

The note which Mr. Williams left for Mr. Bull stated that he and his bride would take a honeymoon trip to Colorado.

SENATOR TOLD PROMOTERS CORPORATIONS WOULD HELP

Story of the Defense Unfolds Many Mysteries in Connection With Political and Legislative Jobs in the "Imperial State."

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1.—Strikingly similar to the famous Cardwell case, which revealed the subterfuge of the public service corporations to political influences are the promised disclosures in the suit just instituted by United States Senator William J. Stone to recover $10,000 from Lee Chrisman, presiding judge of the Jackson County court, and former president of the Kansas City Times Co., in which he and Stone, together with H. J. Groves of Kansas City, John Sullivan of St. Louis, the Metropolitan Street Railway Co. of Kansas City, the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co., the Kansas City Stock Yards Co., the Burlington Railroad Co., and A. A. Lessor, former secretary of state, hold proprietary interests.

At the mercy of political schemers and corporations which demanded their pound of flesh, the Kansas City Times, from a recognized organ of democracy, became during a period of two years, a mere personal mouthpiece—disturbed by a large element of Democrats and without the support of business men or the public at large.

Financial ruin followed quickly and scarcely a dollar was saved from the wreck.

In the petition filed Saturday, Senator Stone declares that he was "maliciously deceived" as to the identity of the Times owner.

Further the senator declares that "the defendant (Judge Chrisman) well knew that he (Stone) would not have been able to do with said business if he had been informed or had known that said corporations (the Burlington, Metropolitan, Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co. and the Stock Yards company) were to be connected with it, and he urged upon the defendant the importance and necessity of getting rid of said corporations and stockholders, and of disassociating the newspaper from them."

Stone's Investment
Partly a "Loan."

The petition recites that Stone gave to Chrisman, as his part of the investment, $10,000, but of this amount he expected back $250, which he says he advanced as a mere loan.

Stone contends that the original proposition to buy Times stock was made to him in St. Louis by H. J. Groves, who acted jointly for him and Judge Chrisman.

Groves represented to him, Stone avers, that Chrisman had put up $2,000, Capt. A. A. Lessor, $15,000 and he would receive the balance would come from other prominent persons of the community, whose integrity could not be doubted.

This interview took place at St. Louis Nov. 23, 1902.

Senator Stone says he understood that Chrisman had subscribed more than he had originally intended to and he took stock to the amount of $10,000 in order, as it were, to accommodate Chrisman.

This, substantially, is Senator Stone's version of the entire transaction.

During the past few days Judge Chrisman has conferred at length with his attorneys, Frank P. Walsh and Frank Seavey of this city, and the plan of the defense is now clearly outlined.

The disregard shown by Judge Chrisman's friends that Senator Stone did not institute his suit before now, although the Times property under the Stone-Lessor-Christman regime passed into control of Mr. Stone, before the Kansas City Star, two years ago.

Judge Chrisman's
First Explanation.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent is authorized to tell now, for the first time, Judge Chrisman's story of the affair and the proceedings which will be taken by the defense to fight the senator's claims.

Prior to October, 1898, the Times was owned by Wiley O. Cox, a prominent banker in Kansas City. Mr. Cox did not find the investment a satisfactory one, and was willing to sell at a low price.

WARNED BY GIRL OF BURGLAR'S VISIT

Dairy Store Escapes Robbery, but Private Family Near By Is Less Fortunate.

A tall man, wearing a beard and a light hat, and accompanied by a companion of whom no description has been given, planned two robberies Monday night and committed one of them the next morning. They were thwarted in the other by a young woman, who, overhearing their plans, told their intended victim, and enabled her to make preparations against the visit.

The successful burglary was at the residence of Victor Berlemdis at 2311 Goodwood avenue; the one in which they failed was that of the dairy store of Murray Bros. at Goodwood and St. Ferdinand avenues.

Miss Mary McDonald, living in the neighborhood, was the young woman who overheard the burglars' plans and enabled Miss Murray to save her cash.

The burglars got from the Berlemdis residence three gold watches, $42 and Mr. Berlemdis' trousers and vest.

The house is a one-story and basement building with dining room and kitchen in the basement and the parlor, Mr. and Mrs. Berlemdis' bedroom and their son's bedroom on the top floor. There is a large window at the front of the basement, and the parlor opens out upon a high set of steps which lead to the front yard.

The burglars entered the house about 4:30 Tuesday morning through the boy's bedroom in the rear, using a stepladder to reach the window. They took his watch and went forward to the front door, from which they removed the key after seeing that the door was securely locked.

Next they went into the dining room downstairs, where they took Mrs. Berlemdis' gold watch from the sideboard.

From the dining room they went into the parlor, which is divided from the bedroom by a partition in which is cut a wide arch. The foot of Mr. and Mrs. Berlemdis' bed is toward the parlor.

Mr. Berlemdis was awakened by a ray of light falling across his eyes. He sat up in bed and saw a tall man wearing a beard and a light soft hat reach to the foot of the bed and seize his clothes. Berlemdis sprang from the bed and the intruder ran, knocking over a chair in his flight. Berlemdis found the front door locked and the key gone, and about the same time he heard the burglars leave through the basement window.

They were out of sight when he got to the window. He found his shirt in the parlor and his coat in the dining room. His trousers and vest, in which were the money and the watch, were gone. One of his cuffs was found in the yard; on the back porch was a small savings bank issued by a trust company, from which had been taken a considerable sum of money the day before. The burglars had evidently found it empty and thrown it away.

CHILDREN CANNOT HAVE HOLIDAY

School Board, in Refusing Them Monday, Says They All Go to the Fair Thursday, Anyway.

Fair Monday has for 45 years been regarded by the school children of St. Louis as a regular holiday. This year will probably break the spell as the Board of Education has recommended against it.

At the last meeting of the board the committee on instruction, George R. Lockwood and John A. Harrison, reported against the usual Monday holiday.

Supt. S. E. Han has not positively announced what he will do. The committee gives as a reason for its action that it be a week ago, returned Thursday morning the city make use of Monday to visit the Fair.

If the Monday holiday is withheld the children will probably all go to the Fair on Thursday.

President Tillis of the Fair Association is anxious for the children to get the holiday, and all the officers say the school children will be admitted to the Fair without charge whether the schools close or not.

Anderson Returns; Is Ill
Man Who Suddenly Disappeared From St. Louis Is Suffering From Nervous Collapse.

Oliver Anderson, secretary of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Dry Goods Co., who disappeared from his home and office a week ago, returned Thursday morning in company with his wife and A. J. Ikegami, superintendent of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney store.

He was taken at once from Union Station to his home, 416 Westminster place. At 2 o'clock it was stated that he was confined to his bed and in the care of physicians. His condition is described as one of nervous collapse.

After the arrival of Mrs. Anderson and Superintendent Ikegami in Chicago Thursday morning in response to a telegram that Mr. Anderson had been found there, Mr. Anderson was taken to a hotel and slept a part of the day, leaving for St. Louis in the evening.

Circuit Attorney Is Giving Long Personal Cross-Examination to Employees of Grain Concern Whose Methods Are Under Investigation.

PICTURESQUE CAREER OF
HEAD OF RIALTO COMPANY

Native of Canada, Bearing Military Title, Was Model of Fashion During His Stay at Downtown Hotel, and Spent His Money Lavishly.

Major Hugh C. Dennis, president of the Rialto Grain and Securities Co., whose affairs are under investigation by the St. Louis grand jury, spent Thursday morning at the Four Courts with Circuit Attorney Folk, waiting on the grand jurors.

Other persons connected with the company who were questioned by the circuit attorney during the morning were Harry Dennis, J. D. McDonald, Margaret Mulhall, Miss Nell Sturdy and Fred Weeks.

They, as well as Major Dennis, were also at the Four Courts most of Wednesday. Miss Mulhall was the only witness examined by the grand jury Thursday regarding the Rialto company's methods. She is understood to have described the book-keeping methods of the company and what she knew of the way in which its affairs were managed.

After she left the room all the witnesses, including Maj. Dennis, were dismissed until 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Major Hugh C. Dennis, president of the Rialto Grain and Securities Co., who has been described as the genius of the so-called "get-rich-quick" grain commission companies, came to St. Louis in the summer of 1901 from Canada.

He introduced himself as an officer of the Queen Guards, a crack militia regiment of Toronto. In business circles he made his first appearance as an agent of a life insurance company.

A faultless dresser, polished in manner and persuasive in conversation, he quickly made friends and admirers. He usually wore a frock coat and shining silk hat. They still distinguish him at the Four Courts Thursday.

He had traveled in all parts of the world. He was a man of education. He knew distinguished persons. He frequented the best hotels and was ready to entertain his friends and acquaintances, regardless of the cost. He was an enthusiastic automobilist and frequently took his friends for trips in his machine. As a result friends multiplied fast.

In September, 1900, he organized the Dennis Underwriting Co., with offices in the Mermont & Jaccard building. "Curious" name he continued in the insurance business.

This was followed by the Brooks Investment Co. Friends whose confidence he had won supported him in these. They occupied his time until September, 1902, when the Rialto Grand and Investment Co., the biggest of Dennis' ventures and the last, was launched. Luxurious offices were furnished in the Rialto building. Rich tapestry and elegant furniture filled the rooms. A large staff of stenographers, secretaries and agents was employed at liberal salaries.

Circulars advertising the company's business were sent throughout the country, offering big profits to persons who advanced their money to it. As a result money soon began to pour in.

The story of his success spread. It excited his irresistible tongue in winning supporters for him.

In Canada it was reported that he had been immensely successful and was interested in many big concerns in St. Louis, being a director in trust companies and banks.

He was said to own a steel plant and Rector McCree came to St. Louis to accept a position as manager of the plant at a salary of $10,000 a year.

The tremendous business conducted under Dennis' direction was called to the attention of the federal grand jury in January. The result was an indictment for Maj. Dennis. The trial before Judge Elmer B. Adams resulted in the dismissal of the case on a technicality.

Judge Adams in dismissing the indictment scored Dennis for his methods, saying that the federal court had no jurisdiction, and that it was a matter for the state courts to investigate.

Immediately after the dismissal Dennis went to California. He was reported seriously ill. William D. Mahoney, secretary of the company, managed its affairs, while Dennis was away.

He returned in July and resumed charge. Soon after there was a split in the concern and Mahoney and several other men who had been connected with the company left it.

Suits were brought by creditors and the office furniture of the Rialto company was attached. Maj. Dennis, through his attorneys, sought a conference with them and effected a settlement, the suits being then dismissed.

The next move was when the grand jury and Circuit Attorney Folk began an investigation Wednesday.

The officers of the company were raided by deputy sheriffs and their books and papers taken to the Four Courts in a patrol wagon to be laid before the grand jury.

Maj. Dennis is 7 years old and a native of Cobourg, Canada, a summer resort opposite Rochester, N. Y., much frequented by St. Louisans. His family was wealthy and he was carefully educated. He traveled extensively in Europe, making frequent trips across the Atlantic, and was the guest of the British royal family at the time of the coronation of King George V. He was engaged in the insurance business in Canada representing several large companies before coming to the United States. Persons who knew him in the army say they knew him as a military officer and do not know where he acquired the title of "Major."

JAPAN WILL SEND TROOPS TO COREA

REPLY TO STONE REVEALS PLOT

This Decision Is Regarded As Indicating That Situation In Orient Is More Acute.

RUSSIA HOLDS TO MANCHURIA

China, Rather Than Agree to the Terms of Evacuation, Acquiesces in Czar's Forces Remaining.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—According to reliable information received here, Japan has decided to send two regiments of infantry to Korea. This is regarded in authoritative quarters as being a most important step affecting Russo-Japanese relations and as a likely to accentuate the possibilities of a war crisis.

Japan's decision is considered to be directly related to Russia's proposition to evacuate Manchuria Oct. 8. It is now accepted in the highest quarters that this evacuation is impossible of accomplishment, as China has not signed the terms on which Russia conditioned her evacuation.

The advice received show that China inclines to continue the present Russian status in Manchuria rather than commit herself to finally signing the proposed agreement. In view of these conditions, Japan's decision to send troops to Korea is regarded as being a most significant step.

Advices further show that the war spirit in Japan has been materially augmented during the last fortnight.

OVERCOME BY NEWS OF MISSING ONE

Mother Elliott Faints When She Is Told That Trace Has Been Found of Her Daughter.

After eight months of anxiety over the disappearance of his 13-year-old daughter, Ethel Elliott, news of the runaway's presence in New York reached Mrs. George H. Elliott of 3134 University street Thursday morning and she fell in a swoon.

One night in February, when the remainder of the household had retired, Ethel passed her best clothes out of the front window of her room on the first floor and left home to seek the glamour of the footlights in New York.

Since that time her parents have vainly endeavored to find her.

Although but 16, she had been employed as a stenographer in a downtown office. She saved her money with great care in order to have funds for her journey to New York.

Her father had no idea of his daughter's intention of leaving home. Ethel had often said she would like to be an actress, but her parents were stricken with grief when they found she had gone without their consent.

Neighbors happened to witness the escape and told how she had fled in the night. The one who assisted her to get away is unknown to the Elliotts.

The search for Ethel has never been abandoned, and Thursday morning a telegram from New York brought the news that detectives had got a trace of her.

Upon visiting a boarding house on West Thirtieth street they learned that only the day before Ethel Elliott had left for Brooklyn, saying she had secured a position with a theatrical company.

An effort will be made to find her there and to bring her back to St. Louis. Her mother desires to place her in the convent of the Benedictine Sisters to prevent a repetition of her actions.

Ethel, her mother says, is a remarkably pretty girl with brown hair and a vivacious manner. She was a favorite in her neighborhood.

WORK ON NEW HOTEL BEGINS.
Structure on King's Highway to Cost Half Million.

Work was begun Thursday morning on a new seven-story hotel at the northeast corner of King's highway and West Pine boulevard.

The structure is being erected under the direction of the Joseph A. Duffy Real Estate Co. It will cost $500,000, and will be completed by June 1, 1934.

The Buckingham Investment Co. is the owner. The architect is H. F. Roach.

The building will be fire-proof. It will contain 28 rooms and 114 baths. The first floor will be devoted entirely to dining room, parlor and office. The site is just across the street from the Monticello Hotel.

College Athlete Will Preach.
William Wilson Brey, a well-known athlete of Washington University, aged 24, was granted a license to preach by the deacons of the Third Baptist Church of St. Louis Wednesday and left for Louisville to take a three years' course in the theological seminary there. He is the son of William L. C. Brey of St. Louis and has identified himself with downtown mission work for some time. He won a dozen silver cups in sprinting contests at college.

Accused of Robbing His Wife.
Jacob Cohen of Washington, D. C., charged in a federal indictment with the theft of six rings and a diamond stud, valued at $100, from his former wife, Henrietta Cohen, was turned over to the United States authorities by the police Thursday morning.

Cohen will be sent back to Washington for trial.

County Court. He was also then, and is now, director and large stockholder in an Independence bank. His fortune at that time was estimated at $200,000.

Groves went to Christian one day, so the story goes, to interest the judge in the proposed newspaper venture.

Groves informed Stone of Christian's friendly attitude and the trio met to discuss the proposition in its entirety.

After a long chat at one of the hotels, the three walked down the street, stopping at Ninth street and Broadway, where Stone wanted to board a car to the Union Depot.

Says Stone Pointed the Way to Money.
Christian was still dubious as to the prospect of making the Times a paying investment on small capital, when he demurred to the solicitations of Groves and Stone as to the large amount of capital it would require.

Stone, pointing the four finger of his right hand at a passing cable car, said he had dramatically exclaimed:

"These (meaning the corporations) are the piece which will put up the money. If you get $100,000 here I will raise a like sum from the other side."

This seemed agreeable enough to Judge Christian and Groves, who had previously solicited Capt. Lesueur to go into the deal. It was decided that Lesueur should be made editor-in-chief, Christian would be in charge of the business, and Stone would be in charge of the editorial.

When the Times was formally launched under its new management Lesueur was made editor-in-chief and Groves was given the managing editorship, a position which the defense will seek to prove was coveted and applied for by Senator Stone himself.

Heralding "Missouri's Greatest Democrat."
One of the conditions incident to Stone's investment and that of Capt. Lesueur was made editor-in-chief and Groves was given the managing editorship, a position which the defense will seek to prove was coveted and applied for by Senator Stone himself.

Judge Christian explained that he didn't mind Stone being boomed, so long as the senator brought to the Times that political and personal following which would put the newspaper on a firm financial footing.

Besides, Judge Christian had come to consider Stone a power in Democratic circles and he thought his party record would contribute to the solidity of the Times as a Democratic organ.

All the conditions were destined to perish within a short interval.

Groves, feeling that his position as managing editor, a position which called for a constant battery of Stone in the Times, was unworkable, he sent to Washington as a Times correspondent there.

Groves' $500 worth of Times stock, he says, gave him a reasonably good standing.

Groves did not remain long at the national capital. The reported decline of the Times induced his return to Kansas City. While he reached the office he began quiet investigation of the company's financial affairs.

While he was so engaged he received a note from Editor Lesueur informing him that his services were no longer needed.

To Judge Christian, who was then in California, Capt. Lesueur thereupon dispatched the message:

"Everything lovely. Have fired Groves." Judge Christian hurried home and simultaneously with his arrival, Capt. Lesueur was shown of his editorial authority.

Senator Demands Return of His Cash.
Then came the first open rupture between Stone and Christian. Stone thought that Christian had dealt unfairly with Lesueur, and demanded the return of his (Stone's) money.

The judge turned down this request, saying the property was then virtually on its last legs; that poor management had brought about the defunct conditions of affairs, and that he himself, if something was not done to relieve him, stood to lose his entire fortune.

Debts were steadily accumulating, and the Times, groaning beneath their burden, was rapidly nearing a red flag.

The company was unable to meet its obligations and Christian came to its relief.

In October 1931, Proprietor Nelson of the Kansas City Star entered into negotiations for the purchase of the Times from the press franchise.

Judge Christian held this franchise and transferred it to Mr. Nelson in consideration of some Kansas City real estate.

The plant was disposed of to other parties for $100,000 and out of this sum the corporation settled most of its debts. During the brief career of the Times and for that reason the stock was never made out in his name, but was retained by Judge Christian.

As to the other allegations Judge Christian will enter a general denial.

Stockholders Fought Laws for the People.
It is a singular coincidence that two of the corporations, namely the Kansas City Stock Yards Co. and the Missouri and Kansas Telephone Co., which figure so largely in the present controversy, had much to do with the promotion of the celebrated Cardwell case.

While serving as a member of the 1899 legislature, W. D. Cardwell claims he was approached by Sam B. Cook, then of the Democratic state committee, regarding a bill to reduce telephone charges. Cardwell declared that Cook asked him to withdraw from the bill, which the Kansas City legislature was about to pass.

The St. Louis Republic printed Cook's denial, which contained a bitter denunciation of Cardwell. The latter instituted suit against the newspaper for $50,000 damages. At the hearing it developed that Representative Cardwell of Cedar County, now a resident of Kansas City, was urged by Ex-Clerk Commissioner Seibert of St. Louis to vote against a bill calling for a reduction in the stockyards scale of prices.

These two incidents gave the case its real impetus, and from them the inquiry revealed that the corporations had been repeated subscribers to Democratic campaign funds. The suit was compromised at the last moment, a mysterious $20,000 turning up at Kansas City and saving Cardwell $500,000, or a "digested sum," to dismiss the proceedings.

When the Kansas City circuit court moved a week from next Monday the first move of the defense in the Stone-Christian case will be a request of the court to appoint a referee to take depositions.

Did Stone Get $10,000 From the Corporations?
These depositions are to include testimony from the representatives of all the corporations with which Senator Stone has had any connection. It will be the purpose of Judge Christian to show that the $10,000 which Stone gave to him was received from corporation sources.

Hiram J. Groves, who was managing editor of the Times under Capt. Lesueur, was asked by the Post-Dispatch as to Senator Stone's statement that he (Stone) did not know that corporations were interested in the Times deal.

"If Senator Stone did not know such to be the case," replied Mr. Groves, "it was his own fault. Both Senator Stone and myself had talked over this matter long before, I suppose, Christian knew anything there was no more consultation."

There were no more consultations, and the Times was launched.

There were no more consultations, and the Times was launched.

whom I was on the most intimate terms. I do not remember all that occurred during our conference at St. Louis, but I am sure Stone knew as well as I did who the persons were that intended to buy the Times. This is one case in which the senator didn't succeed in hiding the shells.

"The only corporations which Senator Stone opposed, so far as I could learn during our long acquaintance, were those whose payroll he was not on."

"If the senator doesn't look out some of these country 'sharpers' will eventually hurt his reputation as an anti-corporation man and a trust buster," concluded Mr. Groves.

WAR DELAYS FAIR DISPLAY.

Insular Revolution Has Depleted the Treasury of Santo Domingo.

Insular revolutions affect the World's Fair, according to a report received from Commissioner Chandler regarding the participation of Santo Domingo in the Exposition. Mr. Chandler says that the minister of foreign affairs of Santo Domingo has notified him of the decision of a constitutional government under President Wom y

Gil. The minister, Manuel de Jesus Galven, says Mr. Chandler, favors sending an exhibit to St. Louis, and was opposed to the recent revolution.

"Notwithstanding the economic straits of the public treasury, he will do his utmost to have his country well represented in forestry and mining," says the report.

FAMOUS FALSE PROPHET DEAD.

Prof. Falb Caused Much Misery by His Dire Predictions.

BERLIN, Oct. 1.—Prof. Falb, a meteorologist, is dead. Prof. Falb's name is associated with a number of predictions he made of approaching catastrophes which were not realized.

In 1867 he predicted that the world would come to an end on Nov. 13, 1890, by a collision with Temple's comet.

He announced a dreadful earthquake in Greece and particularly Athens for May 5, 1901, with the result that a panic prevailed in Athens the night previous. Hundreds took refuge in ships in the harbor and May 5 was a beautiful day in Athens.

Great consternation was created in Chile by his prediction of a severe earthquake in 1896 and crowds flocked out of Valparaiso and took refuge in the foothills of the Andes until the fatal day passed. Recently Prof. Falb had not been heard as much of as a prophet.

Said: I don't think much of De Joon. Brown: I do. Smith: Because why? Brown: Because he owes me $5.

BROWN TELLS OF COTTON CORNER

His Own Figures Indicate That His Profits in September Options Exceeded Millions.

SPECULATORS HIS VICTIMS

Every Sale Contract He Made Contained Provision That Prevented Any Sale Back to Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The most remarkable corner ever successfully manipulated in the cotton market was officially ended with September at a net profit of more than $3,000,000 for W. P. Brown, the New Orleans speculator.

All the speculators were compelled by Mr. Brown to settle at 14 cents a pound or $3 a bale above the closing price. With spinners and manufacturing firms, who were caught short, he was more lenient. Some he allowed to settle on a basis of 12 1/2, and others at 13 cents.

Mr. Brown talked with some freedom about the corner. While he refused to say what the profits were, he said that the number of bales which had been settled for was much nearer 200,000 than 25,000. His profit is figured to have ranged from $1 to $2 a bale. Big cotton firms estimated that the corner involved settlements at his own figures on 150,000 bales, and his total profit was $3,000,000. "This corner differed from any other that was ever attempted in cotton," said Mr. Brown. "We got control of all of the September supply when we found that several New York speculators and Wall Street houses were selling the option freely."

"We protected ourselves in this way: When we sold any cotton we obtained contracts from the buyers prohibiting them from offering it for sale again on any exchange in this country or Europe. When it was once sold we made sure that it could not be delivered back to us."

"We were willing that the spinners should have the cotton for the legitimate purposes of consumption, but we were unwilling to have it pass into the control of the speculators who sold it short. We have never made any effort to squeeze the spinners."

When asked about the profits, Mr. Brown said: "I cannot answer that further than to say that we bought more cotton at 8 cents and sold it for 14 cents than we have been credited with."

"I want to say again that the accusation that we squeezed the spinners and the consequences of the corner will be beneficial to the cotton trade. Speculators who have heretofore dominated the situation will in future put a much smaller figure on the market. They will now run on a business basis."

Mr. Brown would say nothing about his position on October, cotton or the future options. It is generally believed that his syndicate, believing that lower prices will rule later on, have sold the distant months short.

CORRESPONDENT HAD EMPIRES' SECRETS

De Blowitz's Memoirs Show He Sacrificed Great Stories to Keep Princes' Faith.

NEW BISMARCK INTERVIEW

French Minister Urged Him to Publish Threats Against England, but Thanked Him for Not Doing So.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Some unpublished history of value and many interesting sidelights upon modern history and historic figures appear in the memoirs of M. De Blowitz, journalist and diplomat.

An correspondent at Paris for the London Times, M. De Blowitz for many years filled a position of unique importance. He knew thoroughly the statecraft, royalty and nobility of his time, and for over 40 years, followed the rapidly changing center of action and interest in Europe. In his memoirs, which are to be published tomorrow by Doubleday, Page & Co., a hitherto unpublished interview with Bismarck, had in 1873, is a valuable contribution to the literature relating to the Iron Chancellor. Bismarck had just come from the negotiation of the treaty of Berlin and had talked with surprising frankness of the stupendous events of the times and the men who helped to shape them. Here is a portion of the statement of Bismarck.

"The peace of San Stefano was one of the most thoughtless actions of modern history. Ignorant of the blunder, which no true statesman would ever have committed. He took everything that he could get. When an enemy is vanquished, and one must think of the consequences of victory as well as the consequences of defeat."

"We should not be where we now are. If in 1866, I had acted like Ignatieff, if I had taken territory from Austria. At that time every one was saying: 'No! I had said when we started: 'If we should be victorious, we shall not be able to listen to Ignatieff, for we must not remain enemies forever. In ten or twelve years time we must be able to come to an understanding with her.'"

Bismarck Explains the French Policy.
"When we were victorious, every one wanted me to take territory from her. I held my own, though, and since then I have often had cause to congratulate myself that I did so."

"At these words, I could not help looking the prince in the face, and he at once read in my eyes the question that was on my lips, for, without flinching, he said: 'I know what you mean; you are thinking about the last war. But in 1871, I acted in the same way. I listened to Ignatieff, for we must not remain enemies forever. In ten or twelve years time we must be able to come to an understanding with her.'"

"Now, this never occurred to any one; and when I was urged to take Belfort and Metz, I refused, saying: 'I had acted like Ignatieff, I should have demanded more territory. I should have demanded more territory. I should have demanded more territory.'"

"I could not impose upon my country the burden of putting 100,000 men into active service at a great moment."

In treating of the evils of the French Republic, M. De Blowitz quotes an extended statement made to the author at this time by Count de Paris. De Blowitz depicted the action of the government, arguing that exile placed the claimants to the throne in the best position that they could wish—that of being able to conspire at their ease.

Sacrificed Great Story on Patriotic Altar.
An intensely dramatic story is told of the circumstances under which Duc de Cases, minister of foreign affairs, heard that Lord Dufferin had bought 200,000 shares of the canal which gave England control of the canal. It was in 1870 and De Blowitz writes that it was at the house of the minister watching him play a game of billiards with a large party.

"Opening the packet," records De Blowitz, "the duke began to read one of the telegrams. Suddenly he became red, then pale and wiped his temples, moist with sweat. Then, as if maddened, with an irresistible movement, he took the billiard cue, which he had put down, struck it across the rim of the table, broke it across his knee and threw the bits into the fire. The persons present, it may be imagined, were in great state of mind. Suddenly approaching me, his teeth set with anger, he said: 'You know what I have just heard? Dufferin has bought 200,000 shares from the canal company. He has bought 200,000 shares from the canal company. He has bought 200,000 shares from the canal company.'"

De Blowitz sacrificed a great newspaper story to his patriotism, and the indiscreet minister, when they met, thanked him for his discretion and kindness.

NO TOUR FOR CLEVELAND.
Former President Says He Will Not Visit the South.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Oct. 1.—In response to an invitation to visit the Branch Normal College, colored here, in the event of a southern tour by him, former President Grover Cleveland has written to Prof. Isaac Fisher, principal of the college, as follows:

"The reports in the press, indicating that I intend soon to pay a visit to the South, are entirely without foundation. I have no such intention, though I know that I would enjoy such a trip. If I were to make such a tour and come to the state of Arkansas, I would be sure to visit the college."

Three new trains and faster schedules on old ones will become features of the Iron Mountain service Sunday, Oct. 1. They are the first of the Iron Mountain service improvements in preparation for the World's Fair.

Train No. 3 will leave St. Louis at 9:30 in the morning, reaching Texarkana at 11:30 at night, and connecting with the Texas & Pacific for Texas and California. This train is expected to shorten the time between St. Louis and California 12 hours.

WIFE STARTER IN IMPROMPTU RACE

Husband's Companion, Who Failed to Join His Flight, Gets Her Hair Pulled.

Mrs. Henry Vogel of East St. Louis spoiled the fun that her husband had planned to have at the Delmar racetrack by forcing him to rapid retreat and then pounding and punching Mabel Burnett, the young woman who was with him.

Mrs. Vogel says she pawned her watch to give Vogel the money with which to get their marriage license. She says she and that after accumulating $2,000 he lost it on the racetrack. Vogel was a bookmaker on the old East St. Louis racetrack, and at one time owned considerable property in East St. Louis.

HOTEL GUEST IMPERSONATED

Man Who Beat Bill at Planters Is Believed to Be One Who Stole Money Orders.

After stealing a book of money orders from the United States Express Co. at Indianapolis, a man representing himself to be H. B. Prather of Pittsburgh defrauded the Planters' Hotel of $100 and escaped detection.

Because of his resemblance to Mr. Prather, an old patron of the hotel, the visitor was accepted as the right man by Clerk Bonneville, who was told by the stranger that he had shaved off his mustache since his last stay at the hotel.

After registering a week ago, the man went to the cafe and ordered supper. Then he returned to the office and asked that two express orders for $50 each be cashed. Clerk Bonneville had no hesitation about the matter, as Mr. Prather of Pittsburgh represents a large establishment. About 9 o'clock the money was paid over, and three hours later, by a remarkable coincidence, a telegram arrived asking that all mail for H. B. Prather be forwarded to Terre Haute, Ind. It was dated Litchfield, Ill., and the man at the Planters could have gone there in the three hours, so the clerk suspected nothing.

A telegram from the New York clearing house stated that the money orders had been stolen, and now the detectives are looking for the stranger.

BODY SAVED, ARM IS LOST

Electrician's Fight for Life Ends by Sacrificing Limb to Devouring Machinery.

Caught in the machinery of an electric pump at the St. Louis Portland Cement Co.'s plant in North St. Louis, the left arm of Robert Roehrig, an electrician, was pulled from his body and ground to pieces.

Roehrig, by remarkable strength and nerve, succeeded in bracing his feet and right arm against a wall so that his entire body was not drawn into the revolving wheel.

He was unable to be moved to a hospital so Dr. Samuel and Berriel Van Houten were called to attend him in one of the rooms in the company's building near the St. Cyr road and the Burlington tracks.

Fifty Years a St. Louisan.
The funeral of Michael Tracey, a resident of North St. Louis for the past 50 years, took place this morning from St. Michael's Church, Eleventh and Clinton streets. Mr. Tracey died at his late residence, 1118 Herbert street, Monday evening after a lingering illness. The deceased was a native of County Tipperary, Ireland. He was a member of the C. K. of A. and a large property owner.

MEN WHO CARRY HEAVY INSURANCE

America Leads the World in the Number of Policies for Large Amounts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—"Suicides by holders of life insurance policies are not on the increase," said the vice-president of one of the largest life insurance companies yesterday to a Post-Dispatch correspondent. "It is the popular notion that there are more suicides of this character than formerly, but it is erroneous. In proportion to the number of the policy-holders suicides among patrons of life insurance companies are decreasing."

"It is often asked by the public why it is that the insurance companies are willing to pay insurance in case of suicide. When life insurance was in its infancy suicides were barred and the beneficiaries received nothing. The tendency, however, has been constantly toward a broadening of the principles of insurance, until now all the big companies charitably pay policies on suicides after one year's premiums have been paid."

"Insurance companies of this city have a clause in their contracts that reads something like this: 'Self-destruction, sane or insane, within one year from date of issuance of this policy is a risk not assumed by the company in this contract.'"

"Thus it will be seen that the companies argue that a man or woman does not take out a policy with the deliberate intention of committing suicide. They reason that if a policy-holder does kill himself, his family or other beneficiaries are entitled to the money if the premiums for one year have been paid."

America Leads in Big Policies.
America leads the world in its number of policies for big figures.

The man who carries the heaviest life insurance in the world is John W. Wamaker, with $1,000,000. His son, Rodman Wamaker, pays premiums on $1,000,000. August Belmont carries $1,000,000.

The Vanderbilt family carries much less life insurance than one would suppose. George W. Vanderbilt heads his relatives with $1,000,000. The next of the family on the list is Cornelius, with $500,000.

The Rockefeller family keeps their insurance accounts, as well as their other investments, a deep, dark secret. So far as can be ascertained, John D. Rockefeller carries only $500,000. It is probably insured for a larger amount than this. If any of the other Rockefellers carry life insurance, the fact has not generally been made public.

Police Commissioner Greene of New York carries $500,000 life insurance, on which he annually pays premiums amounting to about $10,000.

Practice What They Preach.
John A. McCall, president of the New York Life Insurance Co., believes in his own medicine to the extent of carrying policies aggregating $600,000. Richard A. McCurdy, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Co., is insured for $200,000. James W. Alexander, president of the Equitable, carries $125,000. George E. Taft, second vice-president of the Equitable, carries policies aggregating $425,000, and his wife is insured for $100,000.

George W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan & Co.'s chief executive partner and chairman of the finance committee of the New York Life, is insured for $275,000. Robert Fulton Cutting, head of the Citizens Union, is insured for $125,000, and B. J. Greenhut of the Siegel-Cooper company, for $250,000. Edward Lauterbach carries $200,000. Edward Wile is insured for $200,000.

Following are some of the carriers of heavy insurance outside of New York City:
In Pittsburgh—R. L. Anderson, $300,000; Thomas M. Armstrong, $300,000; Henry W. Hartman, $450,000; W. Howard Nimick, $500,000; Robert Pittman, $500,000; T. Schoen, $500,000; William P. Snyder, $500,000.

Boston—J. R. Whipple, $500,000. Chicago—H. N. Hertschbach, $700,000; H. H. Kohlman, $1,000,000; Henry C. Lytt, $500,000; Fred W. Peck, $450,000. Toledo—C. J. Devlin, $125,000. Milwaukee—James L. Gates, $500,000. Buffalo—George V. Forman, $250,000.

So far this year's record of life insurance in the United States is the heaviest in the history of the business.

BABY BATTLES WITH A SNAKE
Though She Kicks and Beats It, She Is Bitten Four Times by Adder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HOBART, N. Y., Oct. 1.—With all the pluck of a grown person, Helen Vandusen, 2 years old, fought a spotted adder, which attacked her as she was playing in her father's farm here today. The child was bitten four times by the snake, and probably will die.

The child was playing in a field near the house when she came upon the snake curled up in the grass. Before she had time to get out of the way it sprang at her and buried its fangs in the flesh of her tiny leg.

With a cry of pain she fell to the ground and managed to kick away the reptile with her other foot. Then jumping to her feet she started to run toward the house. The snake would not let her go, and she could shake it off again. She picked up a stick and began to beat the snake. Coiling itself, the adder again sprang at her and struck her on the arm.

All the time she was striking at the snake with the stick the child kept up a series of shrieks. Summoned by her cries, her mother ran from the house and reached her side just as the snake would itself around the child's leg for the second time. Quickly the mother took the stick from the child's hand and beat the snake off. Then with her heel she crushed the snake into the ground.

Taking her daughter in her arms, Mrs. Vandusen hurried back to the house. Physicians were summoned, and, although they worked heroically with the little girl, she continued to sink. Her legs have swollen to twice their normal size, and it is feared that she cannot recover.

The snake, when measured, was found to be nearly three feet long, an unusual size for a spotted adder. These snakes are dangerous when angered and their bite is regarded as almost invariably mortal.

TWO CRANKS AT WHITE HOUSE
But Neither Succeeded in Seeing the President.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Two eccentric visitors, both old men, who tried to reach the President, were headed off by the secret service guards and locked up. Gustave Ehrlich came from Syracuse, Kan., to try to induce Mr. Roosevelt to aid him in raising money for foreign missions. He insisted on seeing the President alone, and was greatly disappointed when he found himself in a cell instead of Mr. Roosevelt's office.

John Epp, who said he was from Philadelphia, told of having had much trouble with his wife, who had caused his arrest several times. He also complained that the President had been sold and the money withheld from him. He wanted the President to straiten out his family affairs and send to Switzerland for his money.

Tried to Steal Preserves.
John Williams, a negro, was arrested yesterday night for stealing 12 quarts of preserves and ketchup from a company at 210 South Sarah street. Williams had been employed during the afternoon putting in a load of coal. His lives at 2200 Eppin street.

Miss Rutherford to Wed.
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The engagement of Miss Emma Wallace Rutherford, youngest daughter of the late Alexander H. Rutherford of San Francisco, and of Mrs. George Crocker of New York to Philip Kearny, son of Gen. John W. Kearny of Washington, D. C., is announced. Both families are well known in society.

New Pastor for Unity Church.
Rev. George Rowland, who resigned as assistant in the department of philosophy at Harvard University to become pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Unity, Park and Armstrong avenues, will preside at the first service here next Sunday. Dodson is a graduate of the Massachusetts State University, and holds the Harvard degrees of A. M. and Ph. D. He succeeded Rev. Edward G. Spencer.

THE LADIES' WORLD
An authority on all matters pertaining to the domestic life of the home. The guide, adviser and friend of half a million American women who are regular subscribers.
A Monthly Magazine for Practical and Progressive Women
This is the age of cleanliness. Compared to thirty years ago, modern methods of living are entirely transformed, and the gospel of health is written in soap and water.
Water itself, the cleansing element, is purified by filtration, that nothing unclean may enter the system to produce ill-health.
Modern newspaperdom is full and running over with suggestions for cleanliness in both editorial and advertising columns.
While all of this crusade for external cleanliness is going on, the purification of the mental and spiritual nature is pursued in but a half-hearted way. How shall this situation be remedied?
The current literature even in the so-called high-class magazines is not all clean. It has many dark spots that are suspicious when you inspect them with a microscope. The germ of suggestion may be found in these dark spots, which on being brought to heat and light, grows and propagates, and breeds into sinister live things that are able to destroy character, and then the home that is thus polluted.
Where can be found cleaner literature than in THE LADIES' WORLD? The wholesome character that pervades every column is easily recognized. It is a guide to "plain living and high thinking," the old Concord philosophy which Emerson advocated. Its clean tone is a bracing mental stimulant.
In its cleanliness, in its wholesome, life giving food for the mind, THE LADIES' WORLD stands second to no publication in the land.
"Making Sunshine in Our Home"
Dear Friends: I write you as dear friends for I have taken The Ladies' World for a great many years, and I consider it one of the means of making Sunshine in our home. I take The Ladies' World Journal and Household, and many other newspapers, but among them all your magazine is the nearest and dearest to me. I read each month every word from the first cover to the last, I think. I have had it in my home for almost twenty years.
Sincerely yours,
MRS. LE VERRIER O. BUSH,

EMMETT CORRIGAN ACCEPTS A SKETCH BY A ST. LOUISAN

Oliver J. White, a St. Louisan with ambition to become a playwright, has secured an acceptance of "The Pot and the Kettle," a sketch from his pen. The piece has been accepted by Emmett Corrigan, who was at the Columbia last week. Mr. Corrigan gave a private rendition of it while he was in the city and said he would alternate it with his regular sketch on the Keith circuit.

Mr. Corrigan's assistant in the initial production of the work was Miss Anna Blanche, who was here last week with "The Little Outcast" company and who was so pleased with Mr. White's conception that she has commissioned him to compose a three-act melodrama for her by Nov. 1, 1938. Mr. White is now at work on the scenario, which he hopes to have completed shortly.

Though but 24 years of age, Mr. White has already had quite an eventful theatrical experience. Born in this city and educated at the St. Andrews School and Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind., he first began to show his talent at the latter institution, when he composed several successful sketches for the Saturday Night Club, a popular dramatic organization at that school.

Last year he took the part of Paolo in d'Annunzio's "Francesca da Rimini," which was produced by the company of which his older brother, Porter White, Jr., is the star. Young Mr. White's role was especially successful, and he left early this week for Detroit, where he will continue his work.

Porter J. White, Jr., a brother, is a well-known actor, while his wife, formerly Miss Olga Verne, is also an eastern stage favorite. Mrs. White will be starred next season by R. C. Whitney, and her brother-in-law's ability in theatrical position may secure for him the order to execute a suitable production.

When in St. Louis "Ollie" White lives at 416 Westminster place, where his father and sisters reside. His father is Porter White of the World's Fair contracting firm of Alexander & White.

St. Xavier's Church was the scene of a brilliant wedding on Wednesday, when the marriage of Miss Marie Walsh and Mr. John Edward Geraghty was celebrated.

The bride, interlacing palms with the groom, was escorted by her father, Mr. John Walsh, and her mother, Mrs. John Walsh. The bridegroom was escorted by his best man, Mr. James Venable.

An hour before the ceremony the guests were entertained with a musical program and at the appointed hour, 4 o'clock, the bride and groom, accompanied by the bridesmaids and groomsmen, entered the church.

The wedding procession was led by the bridesmaids, Messrs. De Mun, Walsh, the bride's brother, Robert Walsh, her cousin, Christy Hutchinson, Robert Chapin of Buffalo, N. Y., Edward Furlong of Milwaukee, Miss. and Edward Geraghty.

Then followed the bridesmaids, Miss Josephine Walsh and the maid of honor, Miss Salie Walsh, the bride's sister, Mrs. Julius Walsh, escorted the bride to the altar, where they were met by the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. James Venable.

Rev. Father Brouneger performed the ceremony. The bride was in a gown of white tulle with a long train and a high collar. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a black bow tie.

The wedding was a simple affair, with no elaborate decorations. The bride and groom were the only ones in the church.

The bride wore an extremely becoming robe of surry chiffon with a deep dounce of Duchess point lace at the foot and alternate clusters of deep tucks and broad satin bands arranged in French folds. The long train was accordion pleated and fell in graceful folds from the waist. The bodice was light, made with a transparent voile forming a bertha of the same lace that decorated the skirt. The long tulle veil that completely enveloped the stately bride was arranged in a spray of bridal fashion and caught with a spray of bridal roses. She carried a large bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a superb sunburst of diamonds and pearls worn on the corsage.

There was a small reception to the intimate friends and immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Walsh on Delmar boulevard, where the bride and groom and their families were entertained. The marriage of Miss Corinne Shewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tripier Shewell of West Pine boulevard and Mr. John D. Lucas took place Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Brangue of St. Francis Xavier's Church, at 8 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents.

Miss Elizabeth Shewell attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a pretty tulle of white mull over blue green silk. She carried a cluster of white carnations. The bride wore a gown of white tulle with a long train and a high collar. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a black bow tie.

Mr. Fuller and his bride will go on an eastern bridal trip and when they return home will go to housekeeping at 444 Forest Park boulevard.

Exquisite Toggery.
That there is time and place for every thing is a trite saying. That there is place where there is harmony is equally true and how well this applies to all things in dress, we can see in the window on Locust street, not far from Broadway, a whose money is wisely invested.

little store called the Toggery Shop. How appropriate the name! You will always find a woman's eye peering through the glass at all the dear little things that delight a woman's eye and heart and which every lady feels the daily need of to make herself attractive. Here are hats, collars, belts, combs and jewelry all in harmonious shades of blue-blue, the new Dutch blue, now so fashionable. Entering the store one is met with quite opposite tones. Hats, new claret and champagne. It is a revelation. Rosenheim's is the place.

Little White: Sky, pa, what's a modern philosopher? Pa: A modern philosopher, my son, is a man who engages in a personal encounter or words with Mrs. Berger.

Stroud vs. Berger.
In an item published in the Post-Dispatch of Sept. 24 it was stated that Mrs. J. M. Stroud and Mrs. Harry Berger, occupying the upper and lower flats, respectively, at 346 Hampton street, "got into an argument which developed into a hair-pulling and dress-tearing contest." Testimony before Judge Tracy in the City Hall police court in the case wherein Mrs. Berger was fined $5 on a charge of disturbing Mrs. Stroud's peace, and later before Justice Spaulding, who refused applications for peace warrants, asked by Mr. Stroud, showed that Mrs. Stroud did not at any time engage in a personal encounter or words with Mrs. Berger.

TO DINE IN GARBAGE PLANT.

Toledo Officials Will Thus Prove Neighborhood Complaints Unjustified.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1.—The city officials will dine in the garbage reduction plant of the Toledo Sanitary Reduction Co. by way of showing the citizens that their protests against the new plant, a neighborhood nuisance are unfounded. Dinner will be served while the plant is in full operation. The location of the plant has produced something like a condition of riot.

Mrs. Emma T. Langdon, wife of a Linotype Operator, Gets Out a Labor Paper With Soldiers Pounding at Doors and Windows of Office.

A LITTLE BATTERED,
BUT STILL IN THE RING

With This Prominent Display Line at the Top the Plucky Woman Sent the Victor Record to Press—Editorial Force Was in Prison.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
VICTOR, Colo., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Emma T. Langdon, the wife of a linotype operator, is receiving congratulations today for getting out the Victor Record and defying two troops of cavalry—over 200 men—who surrounded the printing office and vainly commanded the woman and her aids to desert, after arresting her husband and all the men connected with the paper for insulting the miners to resistance.

They pounded the doors and windows, peering to effect an entrance without actually breaking in, but Mrs. Langdon sat at the machine until she had completed her work; then she set the big display line, "A Little Battered, but Still in the Ring," locked up the forms and turned them over to a pressman whom she had routed out of bed in a cabin away up in the hills.

"I have not had any sleep for 36 hours," she explained. "I have been unable to get a minute's rest on account of the recent developments. At dawn newboys came to the door to get their papers, but for a time we were afraid to open the place lest the military should swoop down on us. I left the building by a rear entrance and went out on the street to re-connote. After doing so I felt that all was safe and opened the door and allowed the newboys to come in. I became anxious to see my husband, and at 6:30 left for Camp Coldwell.

"Just to show the soldiers that we were able to get out the Record, I brought along a bundle of papers and distributed them among the sentries at the guard house. They were much surprised, and I enjoyed their astonishment. Word came back that Gen. Bell would send my husband to me in company of an orderly. I waited two hours and then came back to Victor disappointed."

Mrs. Langdon is a printer and a member of the Typographical Union, A. H. Miller, the business manager, gave Mrs. Langdon all the credit for getting out the paper. He says she was at all times cool, and did twice as much work as he and the pressman.

Editor Kyner, Circulator Street and G. and F. W. Longdon, linotype operators of the Victor Record staff, who were arrested by the military, were turned over to the civil authorities and released on bonds of $100 each. They also resumed work in the Record office today. They are charged with malicious libel, but it is said that other charges will be made against them tomorrow.

The latest development in the strike situation came when the Gold Coin mine at Victor closed down, involving the closing of the Economic mill and throwing out of work 200 union miners. The properties belong to the Wood Brothers. The latter have not heretofore been involved in the labor troubles here. The strike was first ordered to support the demand of the mill men for an eight-hour day. The Wood Brothers had already given this concession and as they did not ship to boycotted mills there was no friction. Today, however, 13 brothers notified their employees that they must leave the Western Federation of Miners and a strike on the properties at once ordered. The Gold Coin company employed 100 men, the Economic mill and there were 100 men leasing on Gold in property.

Resolutions were adopted by the Colorado Springs Federated Trades Council, calling on the citizens of the state, regardless of calling, to demand the impeachment of Gov. Peabody for sending the militia to Cripple Creek during a time of profound peace. In the spirit of the resolutions, a committee was appointed to arrange for a mass meeting to be held in this city at an early date for the purpose of taking action. The resolutions also denounce the militia and declare that it is composed of the most undesirable elements in society, "youths of inexperience and men of low character."

POSTOFFICE PLANS GROWING

rip 100 Feet Square Now Desired in Addition to Site First Contemplated.

The ground must be secured for the new St. Louis postoffice before government will erect a building on the secured opposite Union Station. There is a 100x100 feet adjoining the property I acquired which should be secured. An opinion of Representative Richard Bartholdt and J. Knox Taylor, supervising architect for the treasury.

The government now owns the entire block bounded by Walnut and Eighteenth streets, Clark avenue and Seventeenth street, with the exception of the strip mentioned. The property was acquired by the expenditure of $200,000 appropriated for the purpose.

It appears that after carefully considering the needs of St. Louis in postal matters with a view to the future, the supervising architect decided that the floor space in a structure to be erected upon the secured block would be insufficient to meet the needs of the city.

BLACKSNAKE BROKEN
OVER BOY'S BACK

West End Neighborhood Aroused by Assault Charged Against a Huckster.

CHILD RAN BEHIND WAGON

Little Companion Who Attempted to Climb Into Vehicle Also Receives Severe Blow.

Residents of the vicinity of Bartmer and Atlantic avenues are deeply incensed over an attack made upon Kenneth Hill Saunders, aged four and a half years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Saunders of 6007 Bartmer avenue, which William Robinson, a huckster, is charged with having committed.

A police court summons has been issued against Robinson on the charge of disturbing the peace. The case was called in court Tuesday, but as Robinson has removed from 4408 Cottage avenue, the address given the court deputies, they were unable to get service on him and he failed to appear. The case was continued generally by Judge Pollard until Robinson can be found.

Robinson is charged with whipping little Kenneth and Preston Duffy, 10 years old, with a blacksnake because they clambered on the back of his wagon. Preston is the son of John L. Duffy of 1114 Alanthus avenue, chief clerk in the park department.

The attack is said to have been so brutal that the whip was broken as it fell across Kenneth's back, and it raised a cruel red welt extending from one side to the other. With the broken whip Robinson is said to have struck the Duffy boy on the leg, but the blow was not so severe. Without stopping to pick up Kenneth, who lay in the road screaming with pain and terror, Robinson mounted the wagon and after a menacing command to the boys never again to crawl on the vehicle, drove away.

Boy Was Never Whipped Before.

Mrs. Saunders heard the boy's cries. He was in such a condition that he could hardly explain what had happened. When she overtook the huckster and demanded why he had whipped her son. She says he acknowledged doing it because the child had clambered on the wagon.

"The man told me that he had sold me vegetables for some time," said Mrs. Saunders, "and Kenneth had grown to know him by sight. He told me that he had seen that it was not repeated. Or he would have lifted the boy down and told him to stay away. This child has never been whipped by his parents, so any one can imagine how terrified he was when a stranger struck him so violently."

Miss May Warkley, a neighbor, saw the child after the assault. She says a bruise was plainly visible on his back, reaching across the back. The tender flesh had swollen until it formed a ridge as thick as the end of a man's finger.

The mark remained a week after the attack, and Mrs. Saunders says the boy was ill for days from nervous fright. Two boys will testify against Robinson in addition to Kenneth and Preston. The accident occurred at 10 o'clock in the morning. Park clothing being ground into the wound by the enormous pressure of the wheels of the wagon.

The application was refused because the clerk that filed the case was 21 years old, as he said he was.

TETANUS FOLLOWS ACCIDENT

Young Man's Injuries Were Not Treated Until Six Hours Later, and Death May Result.

Tetanus, developing as a result of delay in attending to a wound, caused apprehension among the city hospital physicians as to the recovery of John Parks, 18 years old, of 22 Papin street, whose thigh was crushed by a bicycle at the Madison car shops several days ago.

"MAKE LIPTON AMBASSADOR"

Then, Says Senator Kearns, King Edward Would Seal His Friendship for America.

SALT LAKE, Oct. 1.—"If King Edward would bring still closer together the English and American people and if he would weld more firmly the commercial interests existing between the English and American people, I would maintain the cordial relations of every character existing between them," said Sir Thomas Lipton, his next ambassador to the United States.

"United States Senator Thomas Kearns today, in speaking of and lamenting the death of Sir Michael Herbert, said: 'Sir Thomas is a typical representative of the best class of England's citizenship. He is one of the most polished diplomats I have ever met, and one of the most successful business men I have known. He would make a great success as an ambassador from England, and I hope King Edward will realize his opportunity.'"

TOUCHING MICAH JENKINS SWORD FUND INCIDENT

Crowds of People Still Attend the Sessions of the Court—The Defendant Calm and Seemingly Confident of Acquittal.

LEXINGTON, S. C., Oct. 1.—J. W. King, a member of the legislature from Florence County, was the first witness called by the state today when the trial of J. H. Tillman for the murder of Editor Gonzales was resumed. In answer to questions by Solicitor Thurmond, the witness said:

"On the day before the shooting I saw a pistol in Mr. Tillman's pocket." Mr. Tillman, he said, was in the lobby of a hotel at the same time talking to some friends. On cross-examination he said he was aware of unfriendly relations between the defendant and Editor Gonzales.

The reading of editorials of the state, relating to the defendant, was begun. W. A. Elliott, Jr., one of the attorneys assisting the solicitor, has before him the files of the state, from which he is reading editorials severely attacking Tillman, covering the period from March 1, 1902, to Dec. 31, 1902. At the end of the first hour the papers for the first hour had not been read. During the reading counsel for the defendant suggested that the editorials other than those relating to the defendant be read. The court held that, inasmuch as the files had been introduced by the state, the state could have read so much as it desired.

Among the editorials which have been read to the jury a number are criticisms of the defendant's actions in telegraphing the President in connection with the Jenkins sword fund incident, while others were written in opposition to Mr. Tillman's candidacy for governor.

There is no diminution of the crowds that throng the courthouse. The interest in the outcome of the trial is widespread. There are persons here from all parts of the state—many of them the personal and friends of Tillman.

The defendant exhibits no nervousness, and, to his friends, professes indifference that he will be acquitted on the ground that the killing of Gonzales was justifiable.

AMUSED BY FAILURE TO WED

Girl's Enjoyment of Trying Situation Not Shared by Seeker of License to Marry Her.

Miss Dollie M. Blackford, 238 Olive street did not regard the failure of Fred R. Marsden of 2630 Washington avenue to get a license to marry her in the same way light that it was regarded by the city clerk. While Marsden hurried and tried to rub out the record of the application, as it appeared on the books of the marriage license clerk at Clayton, the young lady laughed heartily and insisted on regarding Marsden's "turndown" as a joke.

The application was refused because the clerk that filed the case was 21 years old, as he said he was.

DWYER AGAIN A BANKRUPT

Liabilities Are $374,835 and His Assets Consist of the Clothes He Wears.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Edward L. Dwyer, a promoter and once the husband of Duchess de Castellucci, has been discharged from bankruptcy for the second time in four years.

His liabilities amounted to $374,835, while his assets were limited to his clothes. When he went through bankruptcy in 1899, his liabilities were $232,085 with no visible assets.

His fortunes were at so low an ebb in 1901 he enlisted in the United States marine corps.

Dwyer has carried on his mining operations in all parts of the world, and his interests include the mines of Mexico, Nevada, California, and Arizona.

He is now in the United States, and his interests include the mines of Mexico, Nevada, California, and Arizona.

ARCHBISHOP BEYOND AID OF SURGEONS

Contemplated Operation Is Abandoned and Patient's Drowsiness Causes Apprehension.

Archbishop Kain is still critically ill with appendicitis at St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, and his general condition remains practically unchanged, except for a slight gain in strength.

Information received in St. Louis from physicians at the bedside of the prelate gives little hope of decided improvement in his condition. Drs. Hill and Blake and Prof. Chambers have decided that an operation is not to be considered, as in his present condition the archbishop would not survive.

His drowsiness is said to be approaching coma, and although he rallied in a marked manner Wednesday night, it is feared the improvement was but temporary.

At times he seems to be better and then falls into a drowsy state. The worst of his depressions occurred Wednesday. Should they become more frequent it is feared that the archbishop could not long survive.

Prayers for his recovery were said in all the Catholic churches of St. Louis Wednesday at the request of Archbishop Gleason.

HOW TO END DIVORCE EVIL

Chicago University Professor Says Only Supervision by Government Will Do It.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Governmental jurisdiction of marriage is the solution of the divorce evil advocated by Dr. George E. Howard, professorial lecturer in history at the University of Chicago and formerly head of the department of history at Loyola University, St. Louis.

Howard publicly announces his theories in a work in three volumes entitled, "A History of Matrimonial Institutions," which will soon be published from the University of Chicago Press. The work is a study of the divorce problem as described by Dr. Howard as follows:

"The divorce evil in the United States should be divided into districts, for each of which a registrar should be appointed. I believe, as Chancellor McCracken suggests, that students should be taught the history of marriage, and should have a knowledge of the historical aspect of the Bible."

"I trust that other universities will take up the idea, for it is a good one."

BIBLE IN COLLEGE COURSE.

President Harper Says Students Should Have Knowledge of It.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—President Harper of the University of Chicago said today that the university would follow the suggestion of Chancellor McCracken of New York that all students pass an examination in biblical literature.

He said that students should be taught the history of marriage, and should have a knowledge of the historical aspect of the Bible.

BARTHOLDT SAW PRESIDENT

Congressman Says Their Talk Related to Parliamentary Conference, Not to Postmaster.

Congressman Richard Bartholdt, who has just returned to St. Louis from a European tour, is silent regarding the recent developments in the efforts on the part of himself and friends to secure the removal of Postmaster Baumhoff. Mr. Bartholdt returned by way of Washington and had a conference with the President, but he says the conference was for the purpose of persuading the President to embody in his message to Congress a recommendation for an appropriation for the entertainment of the International Conference of Parliamentarians, which will meet in St. Louis next year.

Mr. Bartholdt denies that he asked Col. D. E. Dyer, United States district attorney, to dismiss the indictment charging the Five Points gang with kidnaping, and says that he had nothing more to say about the case.

At the request of Bartholdt's friends I saw Col. Dyer in regard to the case. I told him I had nothing more to say about the case.

Mr. Bartholdt is much elated over securing the 1904 congress of the parliamentarians for St. Louis. Mrs. Bartholdt, who accompanied the congressman on his return, is greatly improved in health.

Death of Old Resident

Mrs. Mary Meagher, aged 82, of 220 Carr street, died at her home Thursday morning at 1 o'clock of dropsy. Mrs. Meagher had lived in St. Louis 50 years. She was born in Milwaukee. She leaves three children, W. H. Meagher of 101 South Third street, Joseph Meagher of 220 Carr street and Mrs. Margaret Meagher of New York. The funeral will be held Friday at 10 o'clock.

GIRL IS WICKEDEST
CHILD IN NEW YORK

Startling Depravity of Driga Coloma, Aged 15, Told to Court by Her Parents.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The "toughest" child of the "toughest" district in New York is in the hands of the Gerry Society. She is Driga Coloma, born fifteen years ago in the heart of Cherry Hill.

Carrying a pistol, fighting cleverly with her fists, swearing like a trooper, trailing the notorious gangs of the East Side, and joining in their brawls and killings and pilferings from her hard-working parents at every opportunity, were some of the most strongly developed traits of this remarkable child.

She is well known to police and neighbors, and it was the fear that she might commit some crime, perhaps do some bodily injury, that brought her parents to the Oak street police station yesterday with a request that she be put under the protection of the Gerry Society.

The parents of "Driga" as she is known, own a small sidewalk business in green groceries at the corner of James and Oak streets, and live a few doors away at 88 Cherry Hill street. During the recent hard winter when they crossed her, and she would abuse and threaten little girls who "hung out" at the corner saloons, far more fascinating than trade in potatoes and onions.

For the last three years a young prizefighter with a bad reputation was her constant companion. She loathed the streets until after midnight, her foul language and blasphemy alienated the roughest members of the gangs when they crossed her, and she would abuse and threaten little girls who "hung out" at the corner saloons, far more fascinating than trade in potatoes and onions.

Black eyes, bruises and scratches were as a badge of honor. A skirt to her shoe-tops and a shirt-waist dressed her, and an elegant suit of dark hair she curled loosely on top of her head. A hat she never wore. She cursed and drove her parents from her when they remonstrated with her, and threatened them with her own vengeance and that of "the gang."

Left Home to Join the Gang.
Saturday she left home, taking her father's revolver, and announcing her intention to become a full-fledged member of the Five Points gang. During the recent roundups of members of east side gangs the police have seen the girl in the midst of the maelstrom, and she has been in her hand, but she always managed to get away.

Coloma and his wife complained to the police that they feared for her life among the toughs and on Tuesday night Officers Maher and Roy, plain-clothes men, surprised her at 40 Madison street, where she was hiding. She fought the policemen with her all her strength, but they landed for her father's pistol was found on her.

Yesterday the mother and police officers told to Justice Climated, in the children's court, the story of the almost unbelievable depravity of the child. Their testimony was hardly necessary as the girl herself cursed, screamed and threatened the court.

She will stay with the Gerry Society until next February, when, as she told the court, she will go to a reformatory. "If I was a man," she said, "I would have been a prizefighter."

The establishment of a joint ticket office and information bureau at the World's Fair grounds, probably in the Transportation building, and a general enlargement of the accommodations for ticket sellers and baggage checkers at Union Station.

Several committees, to whom will be entrusted the working out of details, were appointed.

Passenger Agents Decide That Headquarters at Exposition Will Be Used in Common.

Among the things decided upon by the general passenger agents of the St. Louis terminal lines, held at Union Station, are arrangements for quicker baggage checking and ticket selling service; plans for issuance of World's Fair tickets and the validation of return coupons; the establishment of a joint ticket office and information bureau at the World's Fair grounds, probably in the Transportation building, and a general enlargement of the accommodations for ticket sellers and baggage checkers at Union Station.

John W. Gates talks like a man who had lost at his own game.

If the police can close the gambling dens on occasion they can keep them closed.

Millions on millions are being paid in dividends today. Prosperity is still with us.

The President approves the peace congress and will perhaps address it upon the importance of greatly increasing the navy.

The Democratic gubernatorial candidates believe that the office should seek the man, but they seem to be afraid that the office has lost its way and are going out to find it.

THE COLORADO DISTURBANCE.

Whatever the merits of the Cripple Creek strike may be, the civil and military authorities are at loggerheads, the governor seems to have muddled things, and the whole state has fallen into confusion.

The worst feature of the situation is the deliberation with which the military obey the orders of the civil courts.

Moreover, the newspaper men charged with civil and criminal libel were arrested by the military and placed in a guard-house. Just why the sheriff was not allowed to take charge of these men and hold them in jail pending their release on bail is not very clear. And it will not be easy for the governor to justify the interference of the militia in such matters.

The disturbance reflects no credit upon the state government. The authorities cannot agree among themselves, and no one of them seems to know his own mind or has any fixed purpose in view. It is a pity there is not some one in authority able to rise above demagoguery on the one side and financial interest on the other and act for law and order.

Extortion should be made impossible by appropriate legislation, but some provision should be made to put strangers on their guard before they stray into danger. Visitors entering Union Station should be warned.

MAYOR HARRISON'S WAIL.

Mayor Harrison of Chicago says the City Hall over which he presides is full of grafters. He adds that if he had his way he would be jumping out the windows, but that he can get the proofs and cannot discharge grafters without the roofs of wrong-doing.

Why not start on the trail? Proofs can be obtained if the mayor will go to work earnestly to seek them. He can get the grand jury to help him. He can probably start an investigation by the city legislature. There are many ways by which an earnest and honest mayor, knowing that municipal officials are guilty of dishonest practices, and who are the guilty officials, can not only put a stop to the corrupt practices, but expose and punish the corruptionists.

In view of what has been done in St. Louis, Minneapolis and other cities to break up municipal corruption no mayor need despair. Mayor Harrison has not justified his inaction; he has merely suggested a good piece of work for himself.

Papers friendly to Uncle Mark Hanna represent him as playing Tom Johnson. If they are telling the truth the strap passengers of Cleveland may as well abandon hope.

A MEXICAN HEROINE.

The accepted view of Mexican women will have to be revised, if Miss Manuela Gomez of Linares is an example of them. Modern progress is transforming them, and they are not only becoming capable, but learning to be fearless.

Miss Gomez is holding up the banner of heroism in a way that should win her undying regard. Her father, who was mayor of Linares, having died of yellow fever, which also struck down most of the city officials, this young woman took the reins of the city government under her control, and not only carried on municipal affairs successfully under the most trying conditions, but acted as a good angel in caring for the sick and dying.

We shall no longer think of Mexican women and girls as inactive, secluded scorpions, languidly sighing behind barred lattices. Manuela Gomez has enlarged our view. She is of the modern world in which women are the trust helpmates to men in all spheres of life.

While it may be expedient to change the name of Market street, it will be pompously silly to turn the street into an avenue. We have too many "avenues," "terraces," "places," etc., which are plain streets or alleys.

THE MODEL MUNICIPALITY.

The proposed municipal exhibit at the World's Fair should be one of the most interesting and instructive.

St. Paul and Minneapolis have united for representation and Berlin has recently announced an exhibit. Other cities in the United States and Europe should take part.

A model municipality should comprise sanitary provisions and appliances, fire department, sewerage, streets, public buildings, electric supply, gas, police, etc. Besides these purely utilitarian departments a municipal beauty as served by park

The exhibit of a model municipality, proposed by Mr. Albert Kelsey, is thus taking shape in response to a demand well-nigh world wide.

The questions of city government—administration, sanitation, transit, etc.—are uppermost in the minds of thinking people who eagerly seek information and ideas on the subject. The exhibit in 1904 should be made complete in all respects, so that it may be an opportunity for study in every branch of municipal economy.

President Roosevelt stated his position in the Miller case with clearness and force. He told the union labor leaders that he must conform to the laws, which are enacted for the benefit of the whole people, without regard to creed, color, race, birthplace, occupation or social condition, and therefore he could not discriminate between union or non-union men any more than between Protestant or Catholic, Jew or Gentile. This is a sound platform. It is a pity it cannot be applied in all cases. If laws were always enforced with exact justice and appointments to office made strictly upon merit, a long step would be made towards ideal government.

PRESIDENTIAL PROHIBITIONS.

It would simplify matters and save embarrassment if President Roosevelt would frame a set of rules to guide those who want him to take part in public functions. The agitation over the Sir Thomas Lipton incident at the annual dinner of the Seawanhaka Yacht Club had scarcely died away when the public was again jarred by the reported refusal of the President to speak at the installation of the College of New York because ex-President Cleveland had been invited to speak. The President is said to have demanded the recall of the invitation to the president as the condition of his own acceptance. That condition being impossible without grave offense to Mr. Cleveland the President declined to appear.

Judging from the President's actions it seems that he holds it to be bad form to have any other guest of honor at a banquet attended by himself, or any other distinguished speaker when he speaks at a public function.

Are there other presidential prohibitions? If the President would write them out and have them published committees in charge of social and public functions would be spared embarrassment and men, innocent of any intention to offend, would not be humiliated by recalled invitations, or the refusal of the President to take part in functions in which they had been invited to participate. Really a pamphlet on presidential etiquette, issued from the White House press, would fill a deep-felt want.

If the British government wants a guard for the queen's jewels a guard must be furnished. If necessary the entire United States army will meet the treasure at the frontier and escort it to St. Louis. But the queen's jewels must be obtained for the World's Fair. There is only one opinion on that subject.

Handsomely engraved certificates of stock may fall in value, but the real values of the country's wealth are not impaired. The loss of a speculator is merely a transfer to another speculator. The sum of wealth is neither increased nor diminished by such transactions.

It is reported that a Kokomo woman has 13 husbands living, one dead, and that she seeks a divorce from No. 14 in order to wed No. 15. This looks like a startling attempt to play the old "13-14-15" puzzle game on Hymen's altar.

Admiral Lambton says there were many numskulls in the British army in South Africa during the war. There was evidently something more than the prowess of the Boers that made things go so much against the British.

The isthmian canal is not abandoned. No special private interest or combination of such interests is strong enough to defeat such a public necessity.

The crops are good. It requires more than an ordinary combination of flood, fire and drought to make a scarcity in this country.

He will also have to overcome the disgrace of witnessing the laying of that laid by Dick Speed to Senator Lyons.

SONNETS OF AUTUMN.

I.
OCTOBER.

October! 'Tis a time of sun and shade,
Of brilliant skies and soul-depressing showers;
A time of radiant beauty and sad hours,
Of frosty morn and walks in sunny glades,
Of dipping nights by glorious noons repaid,
Of summer sweetness, lacking but the flowers
With which fair Summer-time her children dowers,
And with which all the earth is overladen.

Beauty there is, but not the beauty vernal,
And warmth there is, but not the warmth of June,
And there are glories of the hour nocturnal,
And glories of the calm, all-perfect noon;
Oh, lights and shadows! Oh, the joy surreal
That cheers a while and leaves us all too soon!

II.

AN OCTOBER NIGHT.

The nascent moon peeps from behind a cloud
Of fleecy whiteness. Great Orion gleams
From his proud station, vying with her beams;
The weeping Pleiad Sisters, lonely crowd!
But dimly twinkle, as by grief still bowed;
The Little Dipper ladies out sweet dreams
To souls receptive. Oh, how perfect seems
The night, when stars, rejoicing, speak aloud!

A breeze there is, that fans the cheek of sorrow;
A breeze there is, that gently stirs the hair;
A peace there is, from which our spirits borrow
An inspiration deep, that makes us dare
Defy the darkness of the doubtful morrow.
Oh, glorious night—how restful and how fair!

Ted and the V. P.

There are several well-defined differences between President Roosevelt and the Velled Prophet.

The V. P. is a complaisant old fellow, and whenever he "commands" certain persons to appear at a certain place to do him honor, as he does annually, he is not at all put out by it, nor does he consider it an insult to his dignity. If said persons fail to appear to salutation to the patriarchal whiskers so long a feature of the autumnal doings in St. Louis. He simply grants them "King's excuse," wisely considering that they had their fingers crossed before he got to them.

On the other hand, whenever President Roosevelt "commands" any person to appear at the White House, he performs the duty of an invader, which is sanctioned by society at Washington, and which the rest of the country must stand for perforce—it is expected that said person will drop everything else and cancel every outstanding engagement and hasten to the White House to commune with or pay homage to the nation's chief; and it would be regarded as a sad faux pas indeed if any person should in any wise fail to heed the presidential "command." While we have no official data, and while this statement is only a surmise, we feel safe in saying that the Velled Prophet is too much of a gentleman to refuse under any circumstances to dine with a distinguished foreign visitor or to former President of the United States for fear that his own glory might be dimmed by their presence.

Merely an Idle Fancy.

It seems an iridescent dream,
Nor call 'em angels; still
What is the sense of 'attn those
'Oom you are paid to kill?
So, barrin' all that foreign lot,
Which only joined for spite,
Myself, I'd just as soon as not
Respect the man I fight.

Some say, no doubt, we will have a volume of "Lectures I Delivered While President," by Theodore Roosevelt; also, "Sternuous Stunts I Have Performed," with a smorgers and a pistol rampant as a vignette.

Three Illinois mayors have been indicted recently for misconduct in office, another has been arrested charged with the violation of public morals, another has resigned and several others are not feeling well.

It has been observed that men in responsible positions who "wander away" in fits of "temporary aberration" and who are led back always recover their senses as soon as a warrant is issued.

John W. Gates says that the present Wall Street flurry is "a rich man's panic." The poor man's consternation will come when he gets face to face with his first coal bill.

If men who are named John desire to abbreviate a monosyllabic, why don't they write it "Jon," instead of "Jno"? Surely the former is more sensible.

The Philadelphia finished next to the Cardinals; but it didn't take much to get next to the Cardinals.

ODDITIES IN DIET.

The northern-bred man puts salt on his watermelon, thereby exciting the ribilities of the Southerner. He puts sugar on his cantaloupe, causing more laughter. He eats butter on his radishes, which is enough to make a cat weep. His cats "grits" with sugar and cream, which would knock a countryman silly. The watermelon is the most beautiful fruit in nature's garden. It should not be touched with a knife or fork. Let it rest on the ground, and let it drop. If in perfect condition for eating it will break in edible portions. Bite off the mouthfuls, or place them in the buccal cavity with the fingers. Save the rind. It makes the finest preserves and pickle of all earthly products. The seeds boiled make a diuretic that is unapproachable. As a diet drink the liquid is far superior to a gelatinized flaxseed tea.—New York Press.

Browne: Yes, requesting the honor of my presence at their "silvering silver" wedding.

RUDYARD KIPLING'S NEW BOOK.

Striking Passages From His New Poems on the South African War and Its Effect on the English Spirit.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Twenty-five new poems from the pen of Rudyard Kipling will be published to-morrow. They will appear in a volume entitled "The Five Nations," published simultaneously in New York and London, the American edition coming from the press of Doubleday, Page & Co. The poet gained inspiration for most of his new work in the South African war, and several of the poems take rank with the best service songs that he has ever written. He is generous in praise of the Boer and not afraid to ridicule the errors of his own countrymen. One of the best of the poems is a tribute to the Boer under the title of "Piet," written in the same spirit that produced "Fuzzy Wuzzy." Here are two stanzas from it:

I do not love my Empire's foes,
Nor call 'em angels; still
What is the sense of 'attn those
'Oom you are paid to kill?
So, barrin' all that foreign lot,
Which only joined for spite,
Myself, I'd just as soon as not
Respect the man I fight.

Ah, there, Piet—'tis troubles to 'is knees,
'Is coat-tails lyn' level in the bullet-sprink-
-kid breezy!
'E does not lose 'is rifle an' 'e does not 'lose 'is seat,
I've known a lot o' people ride a dam' sight worse than Piet!

No more I'll 'ar 'is rifle crack
Along the block-house fence—
The beggar's on the peaceful tack,
Regardless of expense.

For countin' what 'is eels an' draws,
An' gittin' an' loane as because,
'E's gettin' 'air the Earth, because
'E didn't give us 'ell!

Ah, there, Piet with your brand-new English plough,
Your graffs taint an' cattle, an' your most ungrateful frow,
You've made the British taxpayer rebuild your country seat—
I've known some pet battalions charge a dam' sight less than Piet.
(Copyrighted 1903 by Rudyard Kipling.)

"Chant-Pagan" is the lament of the English irregular, who finds England tame and unbearable after South Africa and war. Part of the poem follows:

Me that 'ave been what I've been,
Me that 'ave gone where I've gone,
Me that 'ave seen what I've seen—'Ow can I ever take on
With awful old England again,
An' 'ousses both sides of the street,
And 'edges two sides of the lane,
And the parson an' 'gentry' between,
An' touchin' my 'at when we meet—
Me that 'ave been what I've been?

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Stranger's Experience.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Nothing article in Saturday's paper where a "shave and a haircut" cost $1.50, wish to ask if your paper could direct the proper officials' attention to this matter. To think a "barber shop" so near the Union Station is allowed to be conducted in such a manner is an outrage, besides it is mostly strangers who visit the place, and certainly gives "New St. Louis" and the "World's Fair City" a very bad name. Strangers get the impression that all things are conducted in like manner, and will not visit as a second time. Let me give my experience. While waiting for a train, I stopped in the barber shop on Market street for a shave. What a shag! I was told the price was $1.50. I thought they were fooling, and told them I was in a hurry. Then three fellows (barbers) about six feet tall, and weighing close to 300 pounds gathered around me and told me to "shell out." Each had a razor in his hand with which I was threatened. They called a policeman in who simply told me I had better pay what they asked and stay out of trouble. After going through my pockets they secured a coin which, besides my ticket, was all I had. They returned the ticket. I found out that no more than one person is allowed in at a time (that is, evenings). They were just having a dispute with a customer before I entered, and made me wait outside till they were through with him. I call this highway robbery. A MAZM,
St. Louis.

Car Service on Eads Bridge.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Is there any authority through which the managers of the trolley car lines on Eads bridge can be compelled to provide effective guardrails on their tracks? That the present guards are useless has been shown on several recent occasions, when the cars have ridden them, and imperiled the lives of passengers. These so-called guards are single iron contrivances, elevated but a few inches above the tracks, and they have caps upon them at frequent intervals which help the wheels to go over.

Substantial square timber guards are needed on the Eads bridge even more than on a steam road bridge, because the rails used by the trolley cars are of the shallow grooved pattern from which the flanges of the wheels can easily be displaced.

Sunshine and Sympathy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Did you ever stop to consider what sunshine was worth? It seems to be mainly light, yet there often seems to be sunshine in some people's lives, even on cloudy days. It is a wonderful thing, worthy of some thought. How do you suppose some people are always in a cheerful mood, while others are always in a gloomy mood? I think it is because of the way they look at the world. Some people see the good in everything, while others see the bad. I think it is worth while to try to be like the first group. Sunshine is worth more than we should give when we give him a listening ear and let him realize that we are his sympathy. We only go through life once, so while going if there is a kind word that will be spoken, why, speak it. It will not cost anything and it will do the follow a great deal of good.
M. M. FREER,

A Practical Suggestion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Appropos of the extortion recently practiced by a barber in the neighborhood of the Union Station in charging a Kentucky stranger an extortionate high price for the work done in said "tonorial parlor," it brings to mind a similar case which occurred some few years ago in New Orleans, for which the proprietor of the barber shop was brought into court. While it was found that under the law the barber could not be reached, it had the effect of securing the passage of an ordinance by the city fathers compelling each barber under a penalty in a conspicuous manner on the wall a scale of prices for work done in the shop. Perhaps such a law here would be a solution of the St. Louis situation with respect.

Streets Torn Up.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
About two months ago Von Verzen avenue was dug up by the city for the purpose of laying a new sewer pipe. This made a trench of eight feet deep through the middle of the street, and, of course, meant trenches to all the houses where there were water and gas pipes. The day from the sewer trench was piled five or six feet high on the street, around the bottom of the trench, and entirely covering the grass plots on the sidewalks, together with most of the sidewalk itself. For many weeks the inhabitants of this afflicted neighborhood lived in mud and water ankle deep and, in some places, a foot deep. All traffic was stopped. Supply men were unable to reach the kitchens without great difficulty and inconvenience, bringing in so much clay on their feet that the porches, walks and even the carpets of the houses were injured or kept in condition with great difficulty. After some weeks the clay was removed, thrown roughly back into the trench and the mound of mud removed from the sidewalk to the middle of the street where it is still. All the grass, of course, on the sidewalk was smothered and can only be replaced by new sod.

How long is this state of affairs to continue? We have been suffering since the first of August. Is it to go on during the winter and are we to continue thus during the cold and rainy months, and if so, the parties who are responsible have the right to make the streets and give us an opportunity to get our shoes and carpets in condition by the time the World's Fair visitors begin to arrive?

MISSOURI ODD FACTS.

The last store building in Hannibal, one of the oldest towns in southwestern Missouri, was burned down by the last fire in the town.

THE MAN IN THE STREET

A Test of Politeness.

At last the labors of the Civic Improvement League have borne fruit, and the Board of Public Improvements will place refuse boxes on the street corners. To encourage the public to use these receptacles, it has been arranged to have the word "Please" painted on each box. It is believed that no one can resist so polite an appeal. It is not to be doubted that these courteous boxes will receive attention. The only fear is that there will be too generous a response. When we see a yawning receptacle muffled in its own politeness, it is not to be doubted that we shall do everything in our power to gratify it. We will fill it at any cost. If we can find nothing else we will place our garbage in it, or our old love letters or the gas bill. The latter alone would fill it to the bursting point.

A box that says "please" is sure not to be neglected. If we can find no refuse nearby, we may dig up the pavement and throw it in, or the cook, or the corner policeman. Of course we would not insult such a polite box by throwing banana skins or cigarette stumps, or chewing gum in it. We will throw them in the street.

"No Big Gambling."

Chief of Police Kieley is responsible for the statement that there is no big gambling going on in St. Louis. It is most gratifying to learn this. Of course we shall miss the familiar uproar of exchanges, the minor notes of small bucket shops and the solos of the bookmakers, but if gambling had to stop as the chief directed, we will make the best of it. Col. Kieley admits that there is some gambling in a small way. There are a few independent craps games being conducted, but no big ones.

And these, of course, are no more harmful to the town than the small highway robberies that are so frequently accomplished. The moral tone of the town will not be affected by small gambling and small thieving. It is only the big enterprises of this nature that hurt. If a man is robbed of 35 cents by a lone highwayman or loses a dollar in a little craps game it does not injure him, according to the police theory. There is no danger from the small robber or the small gambler, of course, but how will the police prevent these enterprises from growing?

Sir Thomas Lipton did not come to St. Louis, after all. Perhaps he is afraid of a banquet? But if he will come we will promise to feed him nothing but raw cereals.

This is the carnival season, but who could feel gay with coal at the present price?

The town is safe. Jim Cronin has returned.

Yes, 184 dollars will let you see all the Flat. And if you are economical you may see it on half that many.

Dagbry: Why are you so anxious to get into all these bargains, ruses?

Jaggby: Why, I am training for the Velled Prophet's ball.

The world should be advised that we have found a barber for charging a customer extortionate prices. Else, none but Populists might feel safe to visit us.

Another man has been made ill by poison whiskey. What a waste of police!

Clarence Tribble had his skull fractured for refusing to buy a drink. It is a hard world for who would be temperate.

The Old Folks' Home, is so popular that the people are considering a plan to make a home for young folk in Jefferson City.

The Velled Prophet keeps right abreast of the times. The coming parade will be a trolley party.

There are nearly two million dollars in the state treasury. Had not Governor Dockery better call a special session of the General Assembly?

In finding John Grant, superintendent of the transit company, $35 because a Broadway car turned back instead of continuing to its destination, Judge Tracy seems to have struck at the root of the street car evil. This beats throwing eggs at the motorman.

If you were wise enough to order your coal last Summer, you may get it by next Spring.

Jim Cronin says that he has been drinking goats' milk in Ireland. Must be going to butt into the House of Delegates again.

Hotel building in its most virulent form is again threatened in St. Louis. They are to be built of lumber, brick, stone and staff. But it is safe to say that most of them will be of paper.

THE NOSE AND GRINDSTONE CLUB

Conducted by UNCLE PEANUTBRITTLE (ROY L. MCARDLELL.)

The success of the Nose and Grindstone Club has been such that Uncle Peanutbrittle has been overcome by the commendations he has received. If he has been silent for a few days after his first outburst in behalf of Down-trodden Man it is because he has been overcome.

The married men of St. Louis sought him out and treated him so finely that he was overcome. It was too much. He was first stimulated and then made ill.

Uncle Peanutbrittle could scarcely get home after the ovation he received. A dizzy feeling overcame him. He felt glad and joyous, and yet he staggered as if from weakness. But it was not weakness. He was too full for utterance. A mist swam before his eyes. He sank down unconscious. The next day reaction set in. He had a severe headache and was feverish. But today he returns to his self-appointed task of rescuing men in bondage. He finds his desk snowed under with letters from grateful members of the Nose and Grindstone Club.

My wife has returned from her vacation looking fine. She was in the Catskills at Tannersville, where she got tanned. She was annoyed to find that I had washed the dishes with the garden hose during her absence. She now threatens to cut off my spending money. I could not account for $2 I did not send her, but kept out of my salary, and she professes to believe I led a double life. But I wish I led a single one. What shall I do?

Answer—Be patient till the great day of emancipation comes. Meanwhile, be patient and cheerful. Profess not to see intentional slights. Always meet your wife at the door when she returns from shopping, tired and petulant, with a sunny smile and a neat costume of some plain dark material. Try to cook something for supper that will be dainty and that you know your wife likes. No matter how long she has been at a social function, do not find fault, but meet her at the door and kiss her, and make no comment if her breath smells of tea and macaroons. Do not nag, and never, never, threaten to go home to your father. Your father has troubles of his own. Keep the house neat and cozy; never have your wife make it warm for you. By a sympathetic course of kindness even the most unthinking of wives can be brought to realize that they are taking advantage of a patient and long-suffering husband.

Dear Uncle Peanutbrittle—My wife sent me to the baker's for some rusks. I came home with a bun and she was angry. I also lost a roll and she was angrier still.

Answer—Your wife isn't well kept. But you do not make yourself sufficiently plain. Was the bun you had made of rye?

Dear Uncle Peanutbrittle—The other evening (we live in a Cabanne flat) I took the dog out for a walk, and in a misguided moment I got on a Suburban car with him. The conductor saw it was a split dog and had me arrested for violating the Board of Health ordinance about spots on the cars. In the confusion the dog was lost and I am afraid to go home. Kindly advise.

Answer—Get a balloon and a sky tether and get back in your house by way of the roof. Your wife will in all likelihood let you down easy. She may be glad to get a sky tether, and treat you like a dog yourself.

LIQUOR FORBIDDEN TO RAILROAD MEN

Nearly Every Line in the Country Makes Its Use Cause for Discharge

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—Railroads throughout the country are waging war against the use of intoxicating liquors and tobacco by employees engaged in operating trains.

The flat has gone forth generally that employees who drink, or who frequent places where liquors are sold, are not safe men to trust with the lives of patrons nor with the valuable property transported by the railroads.

Total abstinence is essential to service in the operating department of every railroad centering in Chicago, and so far as known of every important railroad in the United States.

The rules which have recently been inaugurated against the use of tobacco are not so stringent as those against liquor, but generally they prescribe the use of tobacco while on duty and when about stations and on the property of the railroad companies. As for the cigarette, the order against it is almost as severe as that against whisky.

The revolution which is being effected in these respects is shown in the new rule books which many of the managements of the Chicago roads have just issued. Without a single exception these books contain the following or rules which are similarly framed:

"The use of intoxicants by employees while on duty is prohibited. The habitual use, or the frequenting of places where they are sold, is sufficient cause for dismissal."

"The use of tobacco by employees when on duty in and about passenger stations or on passenger cars is prohibited."

While the rules are now practically the same on all railroads, some are even more severe than others in their enforcement. Not all the railroads assume to say whether or not the employees may drink when off duty, while henceforth not a few, the Rock Island, for example, will discharge any employee who frequents saloons whether on or off duty.

In the old days of railroading the engineer, fireman or trainman who could carouse must have been the best man on the line and was not frowned upon by his superiors. As the traffic of the country grew amazingly, however, and the public demand came for faster time and better service, the train crews which were seen most frequently in saloons were credited with the greatest number of wrecks, and general managers began to do some thinking.

NEW MAHATMA IS SEEKING DISCIPLES

His Saffron Turban and Weird Appearance Draw Curious Crowds but Few Converts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—The Doctor of the Mind, the High Priest of the Spiritual Universe, the Mahatma Aganya Guru Parmananda has arrived. He has come out of the East, this unorthodox precursor of the spiritual world, with his saffron-colored turban and a prostrate attendant to guide his footsteps. Unheralded, he came to New York from Boston, where he held forth since his arrival from India two weeks ago. He is domiciled with his faithful valet at a boarding house at 141 West Sixty-first street.

To the sanctified soul within him New York is panting for salvation.

"I am the soul of souls, omniscient, immutable, potential," he said today. "I am in all things and all things are in me. I am the Supreme Being and preside over the universe of truth."

The Mahatma proceeded, ecstatically to unfold to a Post-Dispatch correspondent how he came to be what he is.

"There is no dualism in the sphere of Mahatma," he said. "My religion is the religion of religions. I am the essence of the most high. My origin was humble, but unlike other gods, I grew to my present exaltation through the slow and successive stages of the Brahmin religion."

I was first a Brahmin, then a Shakti, but now I am a Paramahansa, the highest pinnacle of godliness in India. Wherever I go they bow down at my feet and worship me from the sacred valley of the Ganges to the banks of the Indus."

The unorthodox professor of absolute contempt for the commercial spirit of America.

"Money," he exclaimed, "I would not touch it. It is sacrilege and profanation to think of it. In India they bring me honey and ambrosia, and pour their gold at the feet of their god. Money? It is for the coarser soul of mortal, not for the Brahmin god."

Despite this contempt, the Brahmin's valet drew forth a snug sum from the reticule he carries and paid two weeks' rent in advance to the boarding house. The Mahatma has not met with as warm a reception as he expected. When the reporter saw him he said he might return to India next week, if disciples did not flock to him here.

He felt that the average American was not receptive of his teachings, but there were a select few, he thought, in one locality whose salvation was lofty enough to embrace his belief. These minds, he said, would necessarily have to be unshackled by the commercial spirit of the country.

The Mahatma says he is 66 years old.

though he does not look more than half that age. He is of stocky build, with large, powerful hands and a stern face. His eyes are deep-set, and he wears glasses to read. His skin is swarthy. He talks English fluently. He says he is a graduate of the University of India, and knows Persian, Sanskrit, Indian, English and Greek. He eats but one meal a day, and that is only after it is cooked by the valet, who is known as the Rev. G. K. Tulpale, an Indian priest.

His clothes attracted such attention in the street that the Mahatma was compelled to escape the curiosity of the crowds that followed him by remaining in doors all day.

LITTLE GIRL SANG FOR PRIMA DONNA

Singer Had Overheard Anna Wilson Rehearsing Parts of "Carmen" to Friends.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—In the mere announcement that Miss Anna Wilson, a California girl, is to be heard by New Yorkers during the coming opera season there is little of special moment, for opera singers come and go every year. But behind that announcement there is a story full of interest.

Some eight years ago, when Anna Wilson was a girl in pinafores and short frocks, she spent several weeks in San Francisco during the opera season there with her mother, who lives in San Diego. Even at that early age the girl was something of a prodigy in a musical way, and her mother was easily induced to let her take lessons from a well-known San Francisco vocalist. The girl applied herself assiduously to her studies and made remarkable progress. Then one day her mother took her to hear the opera "Carmen." The little songstress drank it all in and the next day she entertained several small and less fortunate comrades with selections from the opera. She was not aware that there was an eavesdropper outside the door. She sang on wholly unconscious that the very woman who had entranced her the day before with her Carmen stood outside in the hallway.

The little songstress ceased to trill, and then there was a tap on the door. The girl in the pinafore stood speechless, when she recognized the famous soprano, who was appearing at that time in the leading opera roles.

"Won't you please sing a little for me?" asked the prima donna. Little Anna warbled "Carmen" music in a voice that made the opera singer gasp in astonishment. From that day Mrs. Collamarini, a famous Italian prima donna, who was appearing at that time in the leading opera roles, asked the prima donna to sing a little for her. Little Anna was invited to the opera as the guest of Mrs. Collamarini. Her ambition was growing. To her little comrades she confided the fact that some day she would be a great singer like her noted benefactress. She knew her mother would about the stage too well to tell her that she had visions of future greatness in opera as she continued her studies. At 15—that was two years ago—Anna Wilson had won some of the fame she longed for, but not in opera. In face of the bitter opposition of her mother she had sung in several concerts in San Diego and San Francisco. When an offer came to her from the management of the Elvira Theater, in the latter city, to take a minor part in an opera, she accepted without taking the trouble to consult her parent.

The mother carried her opposition to the point of appealing to the directors of the theater, and they were on the point of releasing the young woman when she appeared before them and argued her own case so successfully that the objections of the mother were overruled.

That season Miss Wilson forged her way rapidly to the front in the company and before the end she had sung in many important roles. Critics were loud in her praise. In her rendition of Frederick in "Mignon" she had no equal on the Pacific coast, and the next season she added to her repertoire, scoring many successes. It was Miss Wilson's intention to appear there again this season, but the continued opposition of her mother led her to abandon her place in the San Francisco company and come to New York. She arrived here only a month ago but has already accepted the place in the company of the Metropolitan Opera company, and she speaks in flattering terms of her voice.

TO MAKE A DESERT BLOOM LIKE ROSE

John Addison Peralta-Reavis Now
Promoting Scheme to Enrich Arizona Population.

IRRIGATION ON A VAST SCALE

Back on Earth as a Promoter, He Is Going to New York to Get Backing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 1.—John Addison Peralta-Reavis of Denver, famous in connection with the alleged Peralta Spanish land grant in New Mexico and Arizona, is in the city. He is now promoting a gigantic plan to irrigate the greater part of Arizona and is on the way to New York to lay before two millionaire friends his sweeping plans for the reclamation of his fortunes.

Mr. Peralta-Reavis is tall and thin. His white hair and bent figure suggest 70 odd years rather than just 50, but his mental powers retain their remarkable activity, and he talks of his latest scheme with the enthusiasm of youth.

"I am undertaking now the thing I wanted pushed in 1888," he said last night. "At that time the Peralta land grant scheme had been launched and I had made my survey. I conceived the idea of filling over the water rights in the Gila and Salt rivers that would one day be valuable. Today the government is doing just the work in building reservoirs I had in mind nearly twenty years ago."

"I urged on the members of the syndicate that this water matter take precedence over the fight for the land, but was overruled. Two young millionaires at the time sided with me. Today we three are all who are left of that company. I am going to see them and am confident they will supply the necessary capital to carry out my plan."

$5,000,000 Is Company's Capital.

Mr. Peralta-Reavis decided his right to surface water to the government to aid in the establishment of reservoirs, but he has retained the underflow, which at two points named by him as soon as the work is finished aggregate a flow of two thousand feet a second. On March 1, 1888, he organized the Water Company, which he owns more than 40,000 of the 50,000 shares. The remainder of the stock is distributed among friends just the way he incorporates and now hold positions as officers and directors. The capital stock is placed at $100,000, and the life of the charter is fixed at 99 years, the longest period of any corporation in the United States. All the stock is distributed by the Gila River Water Co. will be at $1 per share and the company will pay 1 cent per mile added along the waterways.

The Gila and Salt rivers come down the mountain side in a series of cascades. At the mouth of the Gila canon the stream is 70 feet deep. The Salt river is 50 feet deep just before it enters the plains. The purpose of the Peralta-Reavis company to build submerged dams at these two points by sinking steel pointed piling into the bedrock.

"In that way we will be able to store the aid of government reservoirs we will have a sufficient quantity to fill the entire gation ditches all the time instead of only at flood tide, as is the case now. To reach the plains from the Gila river we will run a tunnel 800 feet through the mountain and the entrances to the tunnel in the mountain will be 10 feet below the surface of the ground. Due to the suction of the water, it will send the water through. Our underflow tunnel upon these rivers amount to about $250,000, a quarter of which will be sufficient to run the tunnels.

To Build a
Forty-Mile Waterway.
"Then I propose to build a waterway running to the east, extending 40 miles along the foothills between the Salt and Gila rivers, 30 feet deep, by 30 feet wide. The purpose of holding flood waters and protecting the distributing systems below. The waterways will be built of concrete, water, and serve as a distributor of water to the waterways. An elevation of 18,000 feet. Additional waterways will be built as the development requires, at a cost of about $10,000 each.

"The company will take charge of the government reservoirs and guarantee payment for them in 10 years. The cost of constructing our dams and tunnels will be defrayed by the people who will reap benefit, the company taking mortgages on the land at $5 and $10 an acre. Then, after the government has been paid, we will be paid merely as distributors of the water. We also plan to build concrete houses along the irrigation system at $1000 each, taking mortgages on the land.

When the whole scheme is worked out the desert of Arizona will be gone forever and a beautiful agricultural state will be the result.

On July 2, 1896, Mr. Peralta-Reavis was convicted at Santa Fe, N. M., of an attempt to defraud the government out of $200,000 acres of land in Arizona and New Mexico. He was fined $2000 and sentenced to two years in the territorial prison. He was released after serving one year and nine months. He never wore the stripes of the federal penitentiary.

Mr. Peralta-Reavis was accused of forging grants to the land dating back to the time of Ferdinand VI of Spain in the sixteenth century. He said that his wife could trace her ancestry back to Don Miguel Peralta de la Corrales, whom the king so favored with this property which today is valued at more than $200,000. Capitalists like John W. MacKay, Collis P. Huntington, Charles F. Crocker, Ed. Stokes and many others were moved by his force and earnestness and contributed large sums in the fight to establish the claim. Roscoe Broadhead and lawyers of equal repute fought for him in the courts. It is stated it cost the government more than a quarter million dollars to successfully defend the suit.

Single Taxers Celebrate.
An enthusiastic celebration of Henry George's birthday was held by the Single Taxers Wednesday night at the Non-Sectarian Church, Lindell and Vandeventer avenues. Stephen M. Ryan, president of the league, presided. Dr. William F. Hill, John P. Goodwin, Thomas Lamule and S. L. Moser were the speakers. Piano selections were given by Miss Imogene Melander and violin solos by Miss Evelyn Mar-

Alcohol in Liquid Kidney Remedies Keeps Up Fever.

WARD MESS TOOK WARNING FROM THE DEPOSITS AND CURED HIMSELF.

ward Mess of Norwood, O., writes Aug. 15, 1903: "Sometime ago I deposited in my urine and almost at the same time felt pains in my back and recommended a box of Kidney-Wort Tablets as a remedy, and I had to say that they relieved me quickly, and I am now in perfect health."

That the public understands the vital importance of procuring a kidney remedy that cannot contain alcohol is shown by the enormous demand at every drug store for Kidney-Wort Tablets.
Has your urine, your back, your general health led you to wonder if your kidneys are sound? Write Dr. Pettingill, Burlington, Vermont. Give him your symptoms, he will advise you free.

POPE CALLS OFF NEGOTIATIONS IN THE PHILIPPINES

Mgr. Guidi, Apostolic Delegate, Has Been Recalled From Manila, and the Scheme to Sell the Friar Lands Dropped Temporarily.

UNITED STATES WOULD NOT PAY WHAT PRELATE ASKED

May Be Taken Up Later by Special Envoy to World's Fair, Who Is Expected to Acquire Diplomatic Standing Through Double Mission.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1903, by the Press Publishing Co.)
ROME, Oct. 1.—The negotiations in the Philippine Islands between the Vatican and the United States government regarding the sale of the land held by the friars and the removal of the native monks from the islands have been called off by Pius X. Mgr. Guidi, the Roman prelate sent to Manila as apostolic delegate to conduct the negotiations, has been recalled to Rome.
The general opinion in Rome is that Mgr. Guidi's mission has failed principally because he would not accept the price offered for the friars' lands by the American government.

It has been decided at the Vatican that hereafter Philippine Island questions must be dealt with directly by the pontifical secretary of state and the government at Washington, or what is still better, through a special representative of the holy see sent to the United States from Rome.
There is a rumor that the Vatican will send a special envoy to represent the Pope at the St. Louis Exposition, and it is thought that this same prelate will be entrusted with negotiations touching the Philippines.

The only difficulty in the way is the fear that the American government will not recognize the papal envoy as a full-fledged diplomat. But it is thought in Rome that this difficulty will be easily overcome in consideration of the offer from the Vatican of an important display at the St. Louis Exposition.

CROWD THREATENS; STABBING FOLLOWS

Car Strikes a City Cleaning Wagon and a Stranger Madly Charges Crowd With Knife.

With a pocketknife an unknown passenger on a southbound Cherokee car attacked a crowd surrounding the car at Twelfth and St. Charles streets just after a collision, and twice stabbed the nearest man, Albert James, a negro, living at 1837 Gay street.

In the excitement attending the man's onslaught the motorman was enabled to start his car ahead at full speed to escape the mob which had threatened him because of the collision. As the car shot south on Twelfth street the man with the knife jumped aboard the rear end and also availed the immediate consequences of his actions.

There was a great crowd on the streets about 6:30 Wednesday evening when the car bumped into a wagon used by the street cleaning department.

Little damage was suffered by the wagon or the persons in it, but members of a street cleaning gang near by declared that the motorman had purposely run his car into the wagon. They ran out quickly and gathered about the car, threatening the motorman.

"Lynch him," "Jerk him off the car," and other cries were heard.

A C. Haynes of 2209 St. Charles street, foreman of the gang, is said to have rushed up and accused the motorman of deliberately running into the wagon.

While the crowd was shouting its rage a passenger dashed out of the car and opened the front platform with an open knife in his hand. He plunged straight at the crowd.

There was a movement of retreat among those in front, but the passenger was determined to use his weapon.

He struck violently at James and tore the flesh of both his arms with the knife. The astonishment of both those near and the intimidation of the mob gave the man an opportunity to leap onto the car.

Edward Johnson, aged 26, was the driver of the wagon with which the car collided.

BOYS WRECK GOSPEL TENT.
Antics on Pole Cause Them to Be Buried in Canvases.

After the evangelistic service, conducted by Isabel Horton, a negroess, at 253 La-cade avenue, was finished Wednesday night, two boys sought to amuse themselves by swinging on one of the ropes attached to the center pole of the tent.

Their antics loosened the pole, and it gave way, causing the tent to collapse. The boys were buried in the canvases, but were soon extricated.

Fair Monuments in Bronze.
One of the plans of the Civic Improvement League is the perpetuation of several of the best pieces of statuary that are to be shown at the World's Fair.

The management of the Fair is having many of its fine pieces and groups cast of material that is expected to last for 100 to 150 years, and it is the plan of the Civic Improvement League to cast two or three of these statues in bronze every year and place them in the parks.

The plans are in the hands of J. L. Van Orman, Robert P. Brinkhoffer, P. Brinkhoffer, W. S. Barnes, William B. Itiner and L. Bierman.

300,930,659 TONS OF COAL MINED

Yearly Production Reaches This Great Aggregate for First Time in Our History.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—A preliminary statement showing the coal production of the United States, prepared by Edward W. Parker, statistician, has just been issued. It shows that for the first time in the history of the United States the production of coal has reached a total of over 300,000,000 short tons, the actual showing being 300,930,659 tons, valued at $73,123,842. The output of anthracite coal amounted to 85,826,710 long tons (equivalent to 41,283,585 short tons), a decrease of 2,374,550 long tons, or almost 3 per cent, from 1901. This decrease was due entirely to the suspension of the strike in the anthracite region. The value at the mines of the anthracite product in 1902 amounted to $1,056,597, as against $112,504,020 in 1901. The average value of the marketed coal sold during the year at the mines was $1.56 per long ton, the value in 1901 having been $2.56. The output of bituminous coal amounted to 225,103,949 short tons, valued at $22,510,394, as against 225,826,949 short tons valued at $22,582,448 in 1901. While the production of bituminous coal in Pennsylvania, in 1902, exceeded that of 1901 by 15,758,874 short tons, that was not sufficient to overcome the great loss in anthracite production.

The states in which the more important increases in the coal production occurred were Illinois, which gained 5,547,871 short tons, or a little more than 25 per cent over 1901; Colorado, whose increase was 2,514,412 short tons, or over 40 per cent; Ohio, with a gain of 2,444,877 short tons, not quite 12 per cent; Indiana, with an increase of 1,208,871 short tons, or nearly 20 per cent; Alabama, with a gain of 1,400,862 short tons, or 18 per cent; and Kentucky, whose output increased 1,193,178 short tons, or a little over 30 per cent.

Informal of Bereavement.
Frederick W. Obermoecker of 2213 University street, recovering from an attack of typhoid fever, has just been told of the death on Sept. 14 of his brother, Edward H. Obermoecker, who died of the same disease. The brothers were stricken at about the same time. Edward's death occurred at Mulberry Hospital when Frederick was so low that physicians feared to tell him the news.

GOELET WEDDING MAY BE POSTPONED

Mother and Bride-Elect Cancel All Social Engagements Because of Herbert's Death.

NEWPORT, Oct. 1.—While no formal announcement has been made by Mrs. Ogden Goelet relative to any change in the plans for the coming wedding of her daughter, Miss May Goelet, to the Duke of Roxburgh, through the death today of Ambassador Herbert, a brother-in-law of Mrs. Goelet, it is understood that the critical condition of Mr. Herbert during the past two or three weeks prevented any definite date being set for the wedding and a postponement is probable.

The news of the death of Mr. Herbert was conveyed to Ochre Court, the home of Mrs. Goelet, by Charge d'Affaires Ralston of the British embassy and both Mrs. Goelet and her daughter immediately

SUES SACRED HEART CONVENT

Miss Archer Says She Was Wrongly Sent to Asylum.

LONDON, Oct. 1.—A remarkable case is being heard in the Assizes Court here. It is an action by Miss Mary Archer against the Sacred Heart Convent for $10,000 damages. She entered as a probationer some 15 years ago in the United States, spending some time in the convent at Omaha, St. Charles, Mo., and other places. She was transferred to the Sacred Heart Convent in London, Ont., and shortly afterward was incarcerated in the Long Pointe Asylum for the insane. She says the officials there pronounced her sane and, after a short time, she was discharged penniless, unless she would sign a release of all claims against the society. This she refused to do, but finally did so in order to get to her home in Milwaukee. She received $300 at that time, cancelled all engagements and will go on to mourning.

Sure Relief for Women.

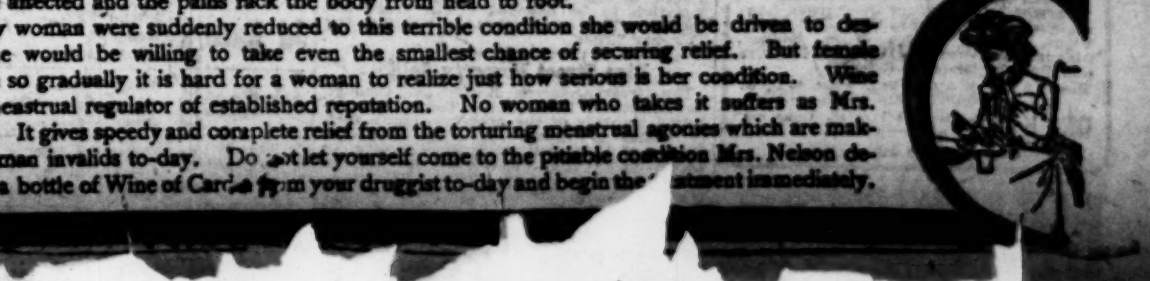

No. 18 Central Ave., Hot Springs, Ark., April 30, 1903.

Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pains in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any. A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years. I took Wine of Cardui as the most blessed medicine that a woman could possibly take when she feels sick and tired of life.

WINE OF CARDUI

Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of hundreds of women in this city to-day. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nerves weaken and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.

If a healthy woman were suddenly reduced to this terrible condition she would be driven to desperation and she would be willing to take even the smallest chance of securing relief. But female diseases advance so gradually it is hard for a woman to realize just how serious is her condition. Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids to-day. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes. Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist to-day and begin the treatment immediately.

another that he weighs a ton. Not quite, but he looks every bit of 180 pounds as he comes lounging, pantherlike, toward his prey, with a grin more dreadful than most men's frowns.

Con, having been warned not to kill him. Pop goes a left hook, not heavily, on the giant's jaw. What! Hasn't he fallen? This is the question in Fit's stare. He comes forward, carefully, and reaches out then hooks it on the jaw. Poor Con leaps up and in a split second is on his back, and in and whirle his arms around Fitzsimmons, holding him harmless for some three seconds. When released Fitzsimmons steps forward and a Cuddles hooks him with a left left on the jaw.

The giant instantly roars at and fro, starts to rise, but Con comes down, knees, elbows and head banging in turn upon the floor. He rises in foam, and then comes forward, and hooks Con on the jaw, carefully as a doctor administers a sedative. Con is on his back, interlating other, for, mark you, Con is not a fighter. He is a doctor. He is a doctor. Down crashes Con the second time, and the giant comes forward, and whirle his arms around with an uppercut on the chin.

Con is confused, dizzy; his head buzzes as his jaw has shooting pains.

"O Sam, Sam," he roars to Fitzpatrick, his second, "how many more goes is there before it is over?"

"Go on and fight, you big dub," is Sam's unsympathetic but useful reply. Such an order will often stimulate a dazed man.

Still more carefully old Dr. Fitzsimmons administers a dose of his celebrated knock-out drops with his left hand upon Con's jaw. The giant reels and staggers, but he does not fall. As he staggers gets up Sam Fitzpatrick tosses a sponge into the ring, the token of surrender.

They lead Con to his corner, dazed and helpless.

GRANDJURY TO INVESTIGATE POLICEMEN'S CRAPS GAME EXPOSED BY THE POST-DISPATCH

W. ROCKEFELLER IS THREATENED BY ASSASSINS

Native Lumbermen of the Adirondacks Inform Him He Is Doomed to Die as Did Dexter, First Victim of Their Wrath.

WARNING SCRIBBLED ON A NOTICE OF DEXTER'S MURDER

"Rockefeller Next," It Says, "And a Dozen More Such, and This Country Will Be Rid of the Most Dangerous Element."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—William Rockefeller, millionaire and brother of John D. Rockefeller, has received notice that the native lumbermen and hunters in the vicinity of his great estate in the Adirondack mountains have decided to assassinate him as they did Orlando Perry Dexter, another great landholder of the district, two weeks ago.

Dexter was shot by hidden assassins as he was driving along a deserted road.

The threat to kill Rockefeller was written on a newspaper clipping, containing the story of Dexter's death. It reached Mr. Rockefeller through Dexter's father, who received it in the mail. A crude hand had scrawled the following sentences:

"Good job, well done. A few more like it will be the best thing this country could have happen to it. Rockefeller next—the wretch—and a dozen more such, and this country will be rid of the most dangerous element."

On the bottom of the clipping is written in the same hand:

"The man who did it deserves a life pension."

The letter was mailed at the Lake George postoffice. Several of the words are misspelled, apparently intentionally. There are no punctuation marks and the handwriting is disguised in printed letters. The address on the envelope is in the same style.

Special Object of Lumbermen's Enmity.

It has been known for a long time in the Adirondacks that Mr. Rockefeller was the special object of the native lumbermen's enmity.

They have been forced step by step further away from the virgin forest lands which he has bought up until his estate now embraces 50,000 acres of the widest part of the country, near Bay Ford and Paul Smith's.

"I am not afraid of the lumbermen up there," said Mr. Rockefeller today. "The threat is undoubtedly genuine and probably came from one of them. But I do not think it anything to become alarmed over. I only came back from the camp on Wednesday. There is no excitement around our place. All the excitement seems to be in Malone and around the Dexter property, north of ours."

"Will you take any steps to trace the sender of the threat?" Mr. Rockefeller was asked.

"I can't say about that. I doubt if we could get a clue."

Henry Dexter, father of the slain man, says the letter to Mr. Rockefeller undoubtedly came from lumbermen, who, he says, have banded together to defend themselves from the encroachments of the millionaire.

"We have discovered the strongest clew to the murders of my son," said Mr. Dexter. "And there is no question but that they will be apprehended."

"We know that not one man, but two, were concealed in the thicket from which the shots were fired. Both men fired at him as he passed."

"One bullet went through the back of the carriage and entered the flank of the horse. The first bullet killed my son."

"We know positively who these men are. They were chosen from the band of 50 or 60 who were bent on his destruction, and the fact that none of them has come forward to reveal the origin of the crime hands them all as implicated in the murder."

"I will spend $20,000 to run the assassins to earth."

"They are cornered now and in a few days more every link in the chain of evidence will be established."

"My son's lawyer, Mr. Badger, is directing the force of detectives on the scene. They are keeping a constant watch over these two men, and if either of them makes a move to leave, he will be arrested."

"The outcome of this warfare will not only be murder, but it may be the destruction of the entire region of forest in a vast conflagration."

"One of the many stories of the alleged oppression by the dead Dexter is that he bought all the land around a woodman's property. He next tried to buy out the woodman, but without success."

In retaliation he refused to let the woodman raft logs down a stream that ran through the Dexter estate.

This kind of treatment is alleged to have been characteristic of the Dexters' dealing with the natives.

CHICAGOAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

O. F. Dyer, a Salesman, Is Found Dead in His Room, With an Empty Acid Bottle Near By.

O. F. Dyer, a salesman for a Chicago firm that manufactures artificial flowers, was found dead in his room at 718 Market street Friday morning.

A bottle that had contained carbolic acid was found near his body. He was 37 years old, and had been married for 12 years. A note was found in his room. It was left no message and nothing known as to the cause of the suicide. The body is at the morgue.

ISLEY ASSAULT IS HANGING FIRE

City Marshal "Expects a Report" on Attack of Dogcatchers Against a Woman.

WILL REMOVE THEM IF GUILTY

Admits That Investigation Conducted by His Appointee Has Been a Bit Slow.

City Marshal James Scullin said Friday morning that he expected a report Friday or tomorrow from Joseph O'Connor, superintendent of the dog pound, in the case of Mrs. D. Isley, who was attacked by three dog catchers at her home, 1120 Chambers street.

The alleged assault occurred a week ago Tuesday. Marshal Scullin admitted that the investigation of the case seemed a little slow, but that he believed the facts would be secured in the end.

He says that if the report finds that the three men, Harry Group, John Skimm and Paul Tammy, are guilty, he will approve their dismissal.

O'Connor is an appointee of the city marshal. While he is the nominal head of the dog pound, he leaves the management of it largely to his brother, James O'Connor, who he would conduct a thorough investigation of the affair, but his brother Joseph assumed charge of the investigation. Joseph O'Connor is also an employee of the St. Louis Sanitary Co.

The mayor's secretary, Mr. McConkey, when asked if the mayor intended to make inquiry into a case of that kind was over person who alleged mistreatment came and made formal complaint to the mayor. This, he said, Mrs. Isley had not done.

Mrs. Isley says she is still suffering from the effects of the attack. She declares that a blood vessel was broken in her left hand and that she is at times in great pain.

REWARD FOR ALLEGED SLAYERS

Gov. Dockery Offers $200 Each for Williams Murder Suspects.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 2.—Gov. Dockery this morning issued a proclamation offering a reward of $200 each for the apprehension and conviction of Nelson Johnson, Tom Johnson and Lee Johnson, charged with murdering Elzy Williams in Paducah, Kentucky, on Sept. 18th. The reward stands good for one year.

PITTSBURG NOW THE FAVORITE

Beantown Turns Out Another Big Crowd to Watch the Struggle for World's Baseball Honors.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 2.—Boston players feel their defeat of yesterday and come out today determined to win from the "Pittsburgh Pirates."

Collins gives the cause of defeat to the nervousness of his teammates and says they went in today with far more confidence. He expects the tables to be turned. A great crowd came out again this afternoon.

"Hard Luck," Bill Dineen is doing the pitching stunts for Collins and the old reliable Leever is the successor of Phillips. Barney Dreyfus and Fred Clarke said that Leever would surprise the Boston players today even more than Phillips did yesterday, and that if another victory didn't come to Pittsburgh they would be the most surprised fellows in Boston.

Rain fell all last night and did not stop until 9 o'clock this morning. Showers fell intermittently all morning and the ground is in a slippery condition.

Sir Thomas Lipton, in a telegram from Chicago to President Francis received at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, declared that he would not visit St. Louis previous to the opening of the World's Fair, but that he hoped to be one of the first visitors in 1904.

The telegram read:

"Gov. D. R. Francis, St. Louis: Expect to leave tomorrow for New York. Am not yet fully recovered, otherwise would have gone to St. Louis. I hope, however, to be one of your first visitors next year. Kind regards. Greatly appreciate all your kindness."

ROBBERS WEAR WHITE GLOVES

Key of Store Was Taken From Clerk and Police Anticipate Attempt to Enter Building.

A young man whose name the police refuse to give reported to police headquarters in East St. Louis Friday afternoon that on Wednesday night he had been stopped, robbed and beaten by three men, wearing white gloves and slouch hats, on Broadway, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

The young man, who is employed by L. Marx's dry goods store on Collinsville avenue, says he was stopped while returning from a St. Louis theater, by the tallest of three men, who held a revolver at his head. The three men took from him a key ring on which were four keys, one being a key to the front door of the dry goods store, and about $5. Then they knocked him down and beat and kicked him. It is his belief, he says, that the men will try to rob the store by means of the key.

FAIR WEEK WILL BE FAIR

Present Indications Are for Mild Fall Weather, Following the Predicted Showers.

The temperature in St. Louis this morning was the same as Thursday—61 at 7 o'clock.

The weather Friday and Saturday will remain warm enough to make top coats a little uncomfortable, but there will be need of umbrellas.

The official forecast is: "Showers Friday night and Saturday."

While no official prediction can be made so far ahead, the general indications are that St. Louis will have pleasant weather for Fair week, which begins next Monday.

The Dakota anti-cyclone has moved to the lake region, accompanied by cooler weather over that district and Eastern Iowa. The plateau depression has drifted northeastward over North Central Montana. Much warmer weather is reported from the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Oklahoma, Arkansas and over the lower lake region, Ohio valley and in New England.

THE WEATHER INDICATIONS.

Minimum—Showers Friday night and Saturday; cooler in afternoon Sunday; generally clear, with a few showers Sunday night.

Blue Uniforms and Badges Are Worn by Players at Hogan's, Who Step Out at Regular Intervals to "Call Up" Stations and Report on Duty.

WARNING RAPS SIGNAL "DANGER" TO PLAYERS

Stiff Bets Are the Rule, and One Patrolman Loses $133 in a Few Shots, While Comrade Quits $180 "to the Good."

The Post-Dispatch called attention to the policemen's craps game in Michael P. Hogan's saloon, 2600 Cass avenue, where policemen in uniform, supposed to be patrolling their beats, gamble nightly amongst themselves and with civilians from midnight to dawn. The game is primarily for policemen and the money in play runs into thousands on the night of the first of the month when policemen get their pay. They have a system of signals—club raps by brother officers—to apprise the gamblers of the approach of any superior who may be unfriendly. The policemen gamblers leave the table at regular intervals to report "on duty" from the nearest patrol box. They are advised in advance when the "gambling squad"—a special corps supposed to keep gambling suppressed—intends to raid the district in which the policemen's game is situated, and even now the tip is out for them not to play tomorrow night.

These policemen gamblers are guilty of the double offense of gambling and neglect of duty.

This game has flourished for six months. The game nets Hogan about $500 per week.

Here are the facts in detail, secured by Post-Dispatch reporters who were sent to the game for this purpose:

When the expose of the policemen's craps game in Michael P. Hogan's saloon in a previous edition of the Post-Dispatch was shown to Circuit Attorney Joseph W. Folk this afternoon he made the following statement in writing:

"The information is of a startling character and very important if true. The matter will be taken up for investigation by the grandjury immediately."

Hogan's saloon stands at the southwest corner of Jefferson and Cass avenues. It is an ordinary looking brick building about forty by thirty feet. It is in the Dayton street (Ninth) police district, which Capt. Patrick J. Gaffney commands.

The main entrance to the saloon is in the angle of the corner, and the bar is on the left as one enters. The saloon runs almost the entire length of the building and is 12 feet wide. West of it and fronting on Cass avenue is the poolroom of the same size containing two pool tables.

In the rear of the poolroom is a room 12 by 12—the craps room. It contains a square table, four feet in diameter, covered with a thick green cloth, ten or twelve plain wooden chairs and a couch in one corner. While the place looks poor, it is slightly the scene of the rapid transfer of hundreds of dollars on the craps table.

The play at Hogan's is surprisingly still, and out of hearing with the loud music and appearance of the place.

There the policemen who play part with their salaries in trying to beat the house, one who makes a business of craps and know all about it. Occasionally a policeman gets into the game who stands in

MCLELLAN LEADS TAMMANY TICKET

Grout and Fornes Chosen as His Running Mates at Murphy's Dictation.

FUSIONISTS MAY DROP THEM

Citizens' Union Will Decide Tonight What Course to Pursue and Republicans Will Follow.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, carried through his program at the Democratic city convention at Carnegie Hall last night. The convention named George B. McClellan for mayor, Edward M. Grout for comptroller and Charles V. Fornes for president of the Board of Aldermen. Thousands crowded the hall and thousands more were unable to gain admission.

There were scenes of wild excitement within the building, and a great crush in which many were hurt outside.

The boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, Queens and Richmond went solidly for McClellan. The Brooklyn delegates, with the exception of one man, voted for Justice William J. Gaynor.

McClellan received 34 votes and Gaynor 218.

The Kings County delegation entered a protest with the committee on resolutions against the placing of the names of Grout and Fornes on the ticket, and they voted solidly against these men when it came to a question of nomination. James J. Martin, chairman of the Democratic city convention, also declined to vote for the nomination of Grout and Fornes, whose names recently were placed on the fusion ticket. Nevertheless, they became the nominees of the convention. Mr. Grout by a vote of 423 to 225 for Julian D. Fairchild, the Brooklyn candidate, and Fornes winning by a similar vote over Herman A. Metz, proposed also by Brooklyn.

The question as to whether the names of Grout and Fornes will be erased from the fusion ticket will be decided at a meeting of the Citizens' Union to be held tonight. The Republican representatives are waiting action by the Citizens' Union leaders. A conference between M. Linn Bruce, chairman of the Republican county committee, and Edward Lauterbach was held today and it was decided that if the Citizens' Union committee removed Grout and Fornes from their ticket, Mr. Woodruff, as chairman of the Republican city convention, will issue a call for the reconvening of the convention on Tuesday night next, when similar action will be taken.

Last night the Citizens' Union county convention nominated Henry Blachoff, Jr., justice of the supreme court and Ralph T. Tamm for sheriff.

WIFE AND MOTHER AT TILLMAN'S SIDE

MANY COME FROM A DISTANCE

Some of These Camp Out Near the Town in Tents and Covered Wagons.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LEXINGTON, S. C., Oct. 2.—Mrs. James H. Tillman and Mrs. George Tillman, wife and mother of the man on trial for the assassination of Editor Gonzales, are constant attendants in the courtroom.

A number of persons have come from distant parts of the state to witness the unusual sight of a lieutenant-governor on trial for murder.

Some of these parties are camped out on picturesque places about the town, and live in tents and under the capacious covers of their wagons.

Unusual strength was developed by the prosecution. The three principal contentions of the prosecution on points vitally affecting its case have been sustained by Judge Gary, despite the protests of the defense. The state's case surprised many persons in the courtroom. What the defense will show is as yet unknown.

When Judge Gary admitted as evidence the words "I am killed," whispered to Dr. Pope by Mr. Gonzales after he had been shot, the prosecution paved the way for the admission of Gonzales' dying statement. In it he made this statement, which was taken down by a stenographer:

"Go, help me God. I never sent any message."

Mr. Gonzales' dying declaration is believed to be one of the strongest points for the prosecution. When the time for its introduction comes there will undoubtedly be one of the bitterest arguments of the trial.

The prosecution was permitted by the court to produce testimony to show that Tillman was armed the day previous to the shooting, and that the bullet which it is claimed inflicted the fatal wound was fired from the Luger magazine pistol owned by Tillman. The objections of the defense to this testimony were overruled by Judge Gary.

H. Spann Dowling, a member of the state house of representatives and a friend of Tillman, was the most interesting witness to the defense's case. Mr. Dowling occupied a room adjoining that of Tillman at the Caldwell Hotel in Columbia. He testified that he had known Tillman for 12 years and had served as his lieutenant in his regiment during the Spanish-American war.

On the morning of the shooting I slept rather late, Mr. Dowling testified. It was cold in my room, there was no fire. I called to Tillman to know if there was a fire in his room. Some one answered that there was, and, gauging up my clothes, I went into his room to finish dressing.

"In the room with Col. Tillman was Tillman Dunch, his nephew, and Fred Dominick joined us nearly 9 o'clock when I got in there. Col. Tillman was dressing. We could not get to breakfast in time, and it was sent to the room."

"I saw two pistols on the mantel—one a Colt's and the other a magazine gun. Col. Tillman told Tillman Dunch to take the Colt's pistol over to some one stopping at the Columbia Hotel. Mr. Dunch went out, but returned with the pistol and told Col. Tillman the party was not in."

"Fred Dominick picked up the magazine pistol and explained its workings to me. He slipped the magazine into the handle and gave it to Col. Tillman, who pulled up a lever. I didn't like the looks of the gun. When I went out all three were still in the room."

"I next saw Col. Tillman in his room at the state house. With him were Tillman Dunch and Fred Dominick. I asked Tillman if he was going to dinner, and he said he could not get away for minutes. I left and went uptown to dinner. While at table I heard of the shooting."

"When I finished my dinner I went to the jail to see Col. Tillman, and expressed regret that he had had any trouble. Col. Tillman asked me where he had hit Gonzales. I did not know exactly, but indicated to him where I had been told. He appeared to be very much surprised, and I got into a carriage and drove to the State newspaper office and saw Capt. W. E. Gonzales, who told me the nature of the wound. I went back to the jail and told Col. Tillman where the bullet had entered and the point of exit. 'I hit him where I aimed,' he said. 'I am sure a dead man as the ball will not change its course,' Col. Tillman told me."

The reading of editorials from the State was concluded today. F. C. Withers, an employee of the State, testified that he assisted N. G. Gonzales into the office of the State from the streets after the shooting. He was asked if he saw any weapon in the garments of Mr. Gonzales at that time, and replied that he did not.

W. Wallace testified that he was in the office with N. G. Gonzales after the shooting and that Gonzales said to him that he was fatally shot.

L. G. Wood of the editorial staff of the State said that he saw no weapons in the garments taken off Mr. Gonzales in the State office and that he never saw a pistol in the editorial rooms of the State.

M. C. Wallace, an employee of the State, said he removed the overcoat from Editor Gonzales when he was carried into the State office after the shooting, and that he saw no weapons in the pockets of the coat.

C. J. Torrell, editor of a newspaper in Florence County, was asked by Solicitor Thurmond if he ever heard Tillman making any threats. He replied that he was walking along the streets of Edgefield with Col. Tillman in the early summer of 1892, he thought it was, and he (Tillman) said "he was going to run for governor and if Gonzales attacked him he was going down then and kill him, and I think he said like a dog."

On cross-examination the witness was asked if it was a fact that he had not made the statement he made today when application was made for bail by the defendant. He said he had not. The witness was questioned by counsel for the defense as to his personal feelings against the defendant and as to an editorial he had written concerning the shooting. He said he had never written a line in his newspaper denouncing the defendant as an individual.

Soldier Released Then Rearrested.
Fred Berger, arrested near Ninth and Market streets on suspicion Thursday night, secured his discharge before Judge Tracy Friday morning by satisfying the judge that he was a member of Troop I, Eighth cavalry, stationed at Fort Riley and here on furlough. The police immediately rearrested him, and are communicating with the authorities at Fort Riley.

HER FIRST AMERICAN DRAMA

Mme. Wong Visits the Theater With Her Husband, the Guests at a Box Party.

Madame Wong Kai Kah, wife of the Chinese vice-consul-general to the World's Fair, saw a serious American play at the Olympic Thursday night. It was her first. The words of the players were translated for her by her husband, who sat at her side.

She saw "The Chinese Honeymoon" when it was here, but that was comic opera, music giving entertainment when words could not be understood.

Commissioner Wong and his wife were the guests at a box party given by Theodore Hardie, the St. Louis representative of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition. The other guests were Miss Margaret P. Jackson, Messrs. J. Collins Thompson and Diaz-Alberini.

Before the play Mr. Hardie told the story of the play to Mr. Wong, who in turn repeated it to Madame. She was much surprised at the rapidity with which scenes were changed between the acts. In China one setting does for an entire play.

After the play, Miss Elizabeth Stewart and Miss Drew of the Frohman company presenting "Lady Rose's Daughter," dined with the party.

Miss Stewart has appeared in theaters in Hong Kong, Shanghai and Calcutta and is acquainted with the customs of the Orient.

Child Drown Near Home.
Coroner Otto Koch of St. Louis County has returned a verdict of accidental drowning in the case of Mary Waldron, 11 months old, the daughter of M. J. Waldron, living opposite Delmar Garden. The little one fell into an excavation in the rear of her father's home. When her mother found her, she was dead.

GIRL AIDED IN JAIL BREAK

Opened Prison Door During Visit and Allowed Brother to Escape—Now Occupies His Cell.

HAZLETON, Pa., Oct. 2.—Carl Treischman, an alleged deserter from the cruiser Topaka, was confined in a cell at the city hall, awaiting transfer to the League Island navy yard, Philadelphia.

The police allowed Treischman's father, mother and sister to converse with him and gave the prisoner and his visitors the liberty of the corridor, the door of which was locked, with the key on the outside. Taking advantage of an opportunity, Miss Treischman is alleged to have forced her slim hand through the grating of the door and turned the key. The prisoner started out, escaping by a side door and has thus far eluded recapture.

Miss Treischman and her father have been locked up, on the charge of aiding a government prisoner to escape, and the girl is in the cell formerly occupied by her brother.

ROUGH ON RUDOLPH.

But the Other Hustlers Have to Have Them.

"This rubber heel business," said one of the shipping clerks at the Lowell headquarters, "is not half so merry as it is monotonous."

"I don't know much about the gentle 400, but beginning with 401 there is a one-two-three call for O'Sullivan heels from every corner of the civilized earth and all around the edges."

"And they are all repeaters."

"If I wasn't cushioned with new rubber myself I couldn't be pushed to the pace."

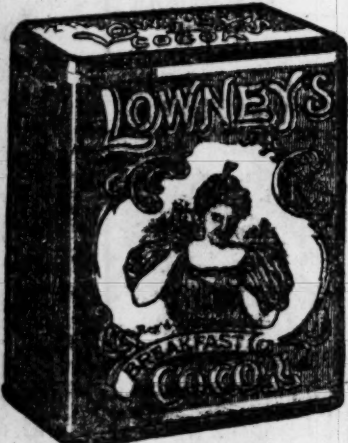

Rudolph had it wrong.

It is due to the endorsement of the gentle 400 in every city, town and hamlet that makes O'Sullivan Rubber Heels so popular.

PROFESSOR WIELDS CLUB AND PISTOL

Manager of the "Great American" Conservatory Secures Warrant Against His Partner.

TELLS OF A VIOLENT ASSAULT

Olive Street Institution Becomes a Financial Success and the Teacher Tries to Release Manager.

William Steck, who says he is business manager of the Great American Musical Co., at 350 Olive street, swore out a warrant Friday morning against his partner, Prof. Harry J. Isbell, charging assault and battery.

Steck says that he managed the business end of the conservatory while Prof. Isbell conducted the classes. He says that instrumental and vocal music of all kinds was taught and that the institution was a paying one. This he declares was due to his successful management of the business as well as to Prof. Isbell's ability as a teacher.

Monday night while he was in his office adjusting his accounts, he says, Prof. Isbell came into the room and said:

"Your services are no longer required. Our partnership is dissolved, and after to night I will conduct the conservatory myself."

He says Isbell produced a long document, which he had drawn himself, purporting to be a dissolution of the partnership.

Steck says he informed Isbell that mutual consent was necessary for the dissolving of a partnership, and that he had not signed his willingness to such a course. He says that he invested considerable money in the enterprise and had no intention of withdrawing from it.

Wednesday night, he declares, he was in the office when Isbell appeared at the door with a club in one hand and a revolver in the other and ordered him out of the building.

Steck says he grappled with Isbell to keep him from shooting and the two men struggled out of the room and down stairs into a drug store. Then he says, Isbell's son, Clem, joined the fray, and the two overpowered him and beat him.

S. T. Dalsimer of 302 Franklin avenue saw the fight in the drug store and corroborated that part of Steck's statement to Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton, who issued the warrant for Isbell's arrest.

Mrs. Steck accompanied her husband to the conservatory the night of the attack and saw the assault on her husband. There was a class in session at the time of the disturbance, and the pupils dispersed without their usual lesson.

Steck lives at 105 North Vandeventer avenue.

HUGE CATFISH DROWNED MAN.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MUSCATINE, Ia., Oct. 2.—After a struggle with a great catfish in the Mississippi river today, William McClain lost his life. McClain was in a skiff enjoying a day's sport. Suddenly he felt a tug as his line and prepared to land the fish. As he first pang, caused by the hook in its mouth, the catfish shot forward, dragging McClain out of his boat and into the swift current.

The line became entangled about the man's body, and in spite of his efforts to release himself he was drowned. The body has not been recovered.

GOEBEL STATUE MODEL READY.

Brother of Late Governor Inspects the Bronze Figure.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Arthur Goebel, brother of the late William Goebel, governor of Kentucky, is in this city to inspect the model of a statue to be erected in memory of the assassin's victim.

The monument, which is to cost $15,000, donated by public subscription, will stand in the Frankfort, Ky., cemetery.

The figure is ten feet high. It shows Mr. Goebel standing beside a Gothic column, his left hand slightly behind him, holding a manuscript, while the right arm falls naturally with hand firmly clenched.

The statue, with its pedestal, when complete, will rise 32 feet from the base. The pedestal will be granite and adorned with a female figure of Fame prostrated with grief. This also will be brought in relief in bronze. It is hoped to unveil the statue on the anniversary of the governor's death.

CHEAP RATES TO FAIR CONDITIONAL

Railroad Passenger Men Demand Protection Against Ticket Brokers.

RETURN COUPONS BARTERED

Manipulation, Which Is Said to Be Common Practice, Is Charged in Court.

Important among the subjects considered by the passenger officials of the St. Louis lines at their meeting, which has just closed, was that of protecting World's Fair excursion tickets from the operations of "scalpers." The attendance at the Fair will admittedly be largely influenced by the final adjustment of this matter, since the railroad ticket that they cannot make low rates unless they are given proper protection.

With such protection a half-rate or one even lower is expected.

At a meeting of the passenger agents Wednesday a committee was appointed to devise means of protection and report Oct. 25. The committee is composed of L. W. Wakely, general passenger and ticket agent of the Burlington; C. B. Crane, general passenger and ticket agent of the Wabash; and A. H. Hanson, general passenger agent of the Illinois Central.

The chief problem is to find a means of preventing the manipulation by "scalpers" of the return coupons of low-rate excursion tickets, such manipulation, it is said, inflicting a heavy loss on the railroads every year. The issue would be particularly heavy, it is said, during the World's Fair, with low rates in force from all points. Passenger officials say the manipulation of these return coupons amounts to forgery. In their efforts to stop it they began prosecutions under the laws of Missouri for forgery. The cases they made were thrown out of the courts on the ground that the Missouri statute covering the crime of forgery did not specify forgery of railroad transportation as an offense, whereas it mentions forgery of checks, bonds and such papers.

Two Passengers on One Ticket.

The way return coupons are handled by scalpers to the loss of the railroads is described thus:

The purchaser of an excursion ticket to St. Louis at a low rate enters into a signed contract with the railroad that the ticket shall not be transferred and that he will observe all the conditions specified, which include destinations and date of expiration.

When he reaches St. Louis he disposes of the return coupon to a "scalper" and the "scalper" in turn sells it at a low price to some one who would otherwise purchase a ticket from the railroad at its regular rate, the railroad thus being to that extent a loser.

The person who buys the coupon must sign the name of the man for whom the scalper bought it, and must imitate his signature in order to prevent detection. This, it is asserted, is forgery.

Suits have been brought by the individual lines in the courts and in the Federal courts to secure injunctions preventing the operations of scalpers. If permanent injunctions are granted it is believed they will furnish sufficient protection.

Railroads Ask Only Protection.

There is no disposition on the part of any other line so far as I know to drive the ticket scalpers out of business or prevent them making a living," said F. D. Gildersleeve, assistant general passenger agent of the St. & A. S. W. V. to the Post-Dispatch.

"Years ago, when the ticket broker was often the commissioned agent of the railroad, common interest existed between them and that the accounts for the enormous impression today in the public mind that the railroads and the brokers are still in some manner working together for the benefit of the railroad companies, and as a result, unscrupulous brokers have resorted to the disreputable practice of changing dates and destinations of tickets, forging names to contracts and in some instances forging entire transportation tickets."

"It is this practice we denounce and seek redress from and which makes it necessary for the railroads to impose upon the traveling public the annoyances and inconveniences of depositing and identifying their tickets and identifying themselves to the satisfaction of their authorized agents. We feel sure that I voice the sentiment of Mr. McCarty, general passenger agent of this company, when I say that if the railroads had the same protection against forgeries that the banker and the merchant enjoy, the traveling public would not discover that our claim that non-transferable tickets be confined to the use of the original purchaser is not a selfish one."

OPENING OF ADVENT CHURCH.

First Services Sunday in the Beautiful Page Avenue Heights Edifice.

The opening services of the new Episcopal Church of the Advent, Chatham and Emmet avenues, Page Avenue Heights, will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Addresses will be made by the rector, Rev. Dr. Winchester, and several of the prominent clergy of the city. The church building is a handsome structure of the early English design, the interior being of Flemish oak. The interior, which will shortly be placed in the church, with the Bible that is to rest upon it, is the gift of Mrs. E. C. Winchester, a memorial to her daughter. The altar rail, hymn board and credence table are also memorial gifts. The Advent Mission opened on Dec. 1, 1902, with a Sunday school class of 10 and only a half dozen communicants. It now has a Sunday school class of almost one hundred and over sixty communicants. The rector, Dr. Winchester, has been most faithful in caring for the spiritual welfare of this mission, and the beautiful church edifice stands as a monument to his interest in missionary work. St. Mary's Guild has also done good work for the church advancement.

THE BRITISH FLAG FLOATS IN BOSTON

Borne Through the Streets by the Honorable Artillery Company of London.

LANDING AT CHARLESTOWN

Near Where Their Ancestors Started to Make Attack on Bunker Hill.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—For the first time in many years the flag of England, guarded by British musketeers, was borne through the streets of Boston today by the Honorable Artillery Company of London, as special guests of a similar organization, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of this city.

Landing at Charlestown, almost on the very spot where their ancestors started on their memorable attack on Bunker Hill, 178 years ago, the redcoats of the twentieth century marched from their steamer, the Mayflower, over the bridge to Boston and then through the streets resplendent with American and British flags, to the hotel which will be their homes during their sojourn in this city. For five days they will be entertained and, after a week's tour, which will include New York, Washington, Niagara Falls and Canada, they start back to their own shores.

Col. Sidney M. Hedges, commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, and staff, boarded the Mayflower and welcomed the visitors through their headquarters, the Earl of Denbigh. Adjutant-General Dalton, in behalf of Gov. Bates, extended the official welcome of the commonwealth of Massachusetts. As soon as the visitors had landed and had formed their lines the procession started. After a march through the principal downtown streets and across Boston common, the parade was dismissed.

The first of the entertainment accorded the visitors will be a smoker in Faneuil Hall tonight.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD.

Extraordinary Precautions to Protect Lives of Two Emperors.

VIENNA, Oct. 2.—A dispatch from Muenster, Ger., says the precautionary measures taken for the safety of the Czar were largely extended today. The special reason for this has not transpired, but fresh detachments of gendarmes have been ordered to the hunting districts, where all movements of unauthorized persons are prohibited during the times the Czar and Empress Francis Joseph are hunting. Special additional precautions have been taken to guard the spot occupied by the Czar during the chamois drives.

BOY TRAMP HAS DONE THE WORLD

Robert Wilson at 18 Has Knocked About, All the Way From Cape Town to Old Missouri.

NABBED BY ST. LOUIS POLICE

This Lad Who Has Made His Living in a Hundred Cities May Yet Have a Chance Here.

Robert Wilson, 18 years old, arraigned before Judge Tracy Friday morning for idling, is a record-breaker as a boy-tramp. He has worked his way over thousands of miles of sea and supported himself in a hundred cities. He came to the United States from Liverpool and talks with strong English accent. He speaks French almost as fluently as he does English.

The boy was born in Cape Town, South Africa. When he was 9 years old, he ran away from home and worked his way to Liverpool, feeding mules on the ship. He remained in Liverpool about a year and then went to London. In London he made a living selling matches.

From London he went to Paris and became one of the street gamblers of the French capital, supporting himself in any way that he could. There he learned to speak French.

When he tired of Gay Paree he traveled to Germany and lived in many of the large cities of that country.

Then he returned to Liverpool. All of these wanderings had occupied little over a year. When he was 16 years old Wilson sailed for America on a cattle-ship. He lived in New York three years. His chief means of support there was selling papers. He says he knows the Bowery from one end to the other and is on to all the ins and outs of the metropolis.

From New York he went to Boston, then to Philadelphia and then to Fortoria, O. From the Ohio town he went to Chicago, where he worked in a brewery.

He arrived in St. Louis Thursday noon, after having made the trip in freight cars. He says he came here on account of the World's Fair and expected to secure work.

Judge Tracy fined the boy $5 and gave him hours to leave town, but after his hearing several persons in the courtroom said they were interested in his strange career and promised him to interfere with the judge in his behalf. Wilson says he wants to stay in St. Louis.

JURYMEN SOLICIT BRIBE.

Two Men Arrested on Serious Charge at Bloomington, Ill.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 2.—A sensation was created here today by the arrest of two jurymen who had been hearing the evidence in an important civil suit for $200 damages growing out of Chicago board of trade transactions. Oscar Green sued John Tjardes, a grain broker of Saybrook, for the sum stated, claiming that his sons had lost the amount on the Chicago board of trade dealing with the Saybrook board.

This morning the jury, composed of Glen Avon, who were drawn on the jury, are said to have approached the lawyers for the defense soliciting bribes money.

The jurymen are noted Judge C. D. Myers, and after a rigid examination of the two men, he directed their arrest at noon, and both were placed in jail. The offense is punishable by penitentiary sentence.

Ordination Anniversary.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination of two members of the faculty of Concordia Seminary, Rev. Franz Pieper and Rev. A. L. Grabner, was fittingly celebrated at the seminary Thursday night.

Rev. C. Schmidt delivered the leading address. Other speakers were Rev. M. Stockhart, Prof. E. Honckes of Milwaukee, Prof. Brandt, Prof. W. Pieper of Springfield, Ill., Rev. Mr. Von Rohr and Prof. Englebrecht of Missouri Synod. The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon the jubilarians and on Prof. E. Stockhart by Prof. Brandt.

POLICEMEN'S CRAP GAME IS RUN EVERY NIGHT

winning for a while, but usually "the gang" has little difficulty in securing the money.

There is a lookout on duty in the bar-room, and for admittance to the craps room one must be vouched for by someone whom the gang considers safe.

The doors to the craps room are kept locked, and are opened only at the voice of a habitue or to admit the bartender with a round of drinks.

No concern is felt by the players about possible discovery, as tips have never failed to warn them of raids intended by the gambling squad.

If at any time the patrolman on the beat—providing he is protecting the game—notifies the approach of a superior officer who is unfriendly, he signals at once with his light stick on the sidewalk in a prearranged way, and at once the lights are out in the small room, the green table is deserted and the gamblers silently disperse, only to reconvene when a later signal tells them danger is past.

It is only the chance stranger, who might wander in and afterward be indiscreet enough to talk about seeing the policemen in uniform playing, whom the craps shooters wish to avoid.

The policemen usually enter the craps room by a rear door opening on an alley, through which they slip from Jefferson avenue.

But often they walk in at the front door, exchange a word or two with the tender and pass through the poolroom to the room containing the table with the green cloth.

The play is heaviest on the first night of the month, just after the policemen have drawn their salaries. They have no difficulty in getting as heavy bets as they wish.

There is no limit to the craps game at Hogan's, and often $50 and occasionally $100 is won and lost upon a single roll of the dice. Last night $60 was the highest bet.

The winners carry off from $100 to $600.

The heaviest loss lately was that of Patrolman William Timpe, who lost $155 last Wednesday night.

Patrolman Charles F. Campbell boasts that he won $180 that night. He was a disappointment to the gang, which quit behind the game for once.

Players Use Paper Money.

"Chief" Tommy Barry is the leader among the craps shooters, hence his nickname "Chief." He carries a thick roll of bills and gives impetus to the game with big bets. He is a quiet player and keeps a pile of bills in front of him constantly.

In fact most of the playing is done with paper money, although there are a good many dollar bets and a few for quarters and small bills. But the small bets are discouraged by the gang and it is only when the policeman or outsider is down with his last money that the small wagers are made.

"Mike" Hogan, proprietor of the saloon, is another player who is not afraid to risk a fearful bill on the turn of the cubes.

"Jim" Barry, a winner last night, is a brother-in-law of Hogan, and these three usually sit in the game together at opposite sides of the table.

"The Weasel," a smooth-voiced young man with a wise air, is another expert craps player who makes Hogan's place headquarters. He is on good terms with "Chief" that he had no hesitation in loaning him $60 Thursday night when the latter had temporary need for it in the game.

Generally the game begins about midnight and lasts until nearly daylight, unless the losers "go broke" before that time.

Patrolman Timpe, eager to make up his loss of $155 Wednesday night, had secured another stake and was out to make a "killing."

John Glynn, another bluecoat in full uniform, also occupied a position at the little square table over which greenback passed forth, but seldom back, as freely as the whiffs of smoke in the stifling room.

Glynn, too, had swelled the bankroll of the game's backers on Wednesday night by dropping $25. Last night he made many unsuccessful attempts to even up by running borrowed quarters and halves into big bills. He failed, and quit the game in debt.

Excused for Poor Playing.

It is rather unique to win money by gambling from the sworn guardians of the law, whose duty it is to prevent gambling. This interesting circumstance and the goodly cash which they contribute to the game enables the gang to put up with the bad craps playing of the policemen.

But Patrolman Campbell is a notable exception. His play is swift and stiff enough to suit the crowd if he did not win so much. Besides the $180 he won Wednesday night, he has quit "way ahead of the game" several times before. Once he won more than $200, and he was wise enough to quit last night when he had only lost $250.

"Why, don't be in a hurry, Campbell," said "Chief" Barry in the friendly manner as Campbell said he must get back on his beat about 3 o'clock; "you may as well stay and enjoy yourself as to be out tramping the streets."

"Why, yes; this is just getting interesting," chimed in "The Weasel," with his knowing grin; "a man who did what you did last night ought never to leave."

But Patrolman Campbell knew when he had enough, and he went his way. Soon afterward the game broke up for the night.

It is not a game for "pikers" in any sense of the word. The case of Timpe demonstrates that fact. Cashing his monthly pay check for $30 Wednesday night, he was a penniless spectator of the craps game a few minutes after he had tried to throw his first "natural." Hoping that he might be able to retrieve his losses before it was time to report at the station for early morning roll-call he secured an advance of $15 on his watch and $15 more from various friends.

The money faded before the prowess of his opponents almost as quickly as the door opened and closed on the ever active "bar-keep," who saw that none should want for a recklessly stimulating glass of liquor.

"Cannon" Went.

He was "Broke."

The watch money saving vanished, Timpe made one more stand before quitting the game. A handsome pearl-handled revolver, pedigree unknown, went by the board for an advance of $25. It was spoken of as "the prettiest little cannon" that had "Boosters" Look After Visitors.

That little police is carefully taken care of by the house "boosters," who systematically cover the money of outsiders and turn in the eventual winnings to the backers of the game after the victim has departed, lucky if he has carfare.

The "fading" system does away with unnecessary noise. Standing in the adjoining poolroom not a sound can be heard that would indicate the close proximity of a craps game. There is no "cutting" at Mike Hogan's game. There are no "favorites," "field" or "come bets." You shoot your money in any amount you choose, and if you don't win too often it is quickly and quietly covered.

The dice are transparent and red in color. A heavy table cover that may at one time have served as a carriage robe, effectively drowned the noise of the dice. The same pair is used during an entire night's play.

Sometimes at Hogan's, when the small craps room is crowded, the game is played in a cigar and cigarette smoke, a transom on the alley side is thrown open and the smoke drifts out into the night, while the exclamations may be heard:

"Eight's my point; come eight; eighty times; there it is; see eight, or ten to make ten; make it; stay away seven; take the dice; never can make ten."

These and like words are uttered by the shooters as they toss the hexagons for money.

Besides Patrolman William Timpe, John Glynn and Charles F. Campbell, there are a number of others who frequently play the craps room, and they were frequently named by those who commented on their absence Thursday night. One is a police sergeant.

Gang "Skins" Club-Swingers.

As a rule the policemen do not play the game so well as members of the gang, who do little else, and so the most "coopers" are regarded with ill-concealed contempt by the gang which fattens on their losses.

A policeman's uniform has no terrors for Hogan's crowd. Sarcasm greets the "coopers'" efforts to explain a poor play or a bit of awkwardness with the dice.

Usually nine or ten men sit or stand around a red table, but the number varies a little every night. Sometimes, toward the end of the month, there is no game. The policemen have lost their salaries and borrowed all they can from accommodating saloon keepers and grocers.

Hogan's is not the only place where the game is carried on, though it seems to be the most popular.

They wait until they are off duty before going to the dice table, but spend most of their watch in shooting craps, unless there is special reason for walking their heels that night. Fellow patrolmen keep watch over them if a strict sergeant or officer is about, and to prevent their absence from duty being noticed.

Last night found the craps game in full blast the day before having been payday in the Ninth police district. Those officers, among the gamblers who had not been relieved of the monthly salary in the play of Wednesday night, were on hand early to bet their money on a roll of the dice.

One of the number, Patrolman Charles F. Campbell, who had combed the crowd the night before to the extent of nearly $200, could not resist the temptation to try another whirl at the bones, and left his beat at midnight to join in the craps shooting.

Patrolman Timpe, eager to make up his loss of $155 Wednesday night, had secured another stake and was out to make a "killing."

John Glynn, another bluecoat in full uniform, also occupied a position at the little square table over which greenback passed forth, but seldom back, as freely as the whiffs of smoke in the stifling room.

Glynn, too, had swelled the bankroll of the game's backers on Wednesday night by dropping $25. Last night he made many unsuccessful attempts to even up by running borrowed quarters and halves into big bills. He failed, and quit the game in debt.

The money faded before the prowess of his opponents almost as quickly as the door opened and closed on the ever active "bar-keep," who saw that none should want for a recklessly stimulating glass of liquor.

"Cannon" Went.

He was "Broke."

The watch money saving vanished, Timpe made one more stand before quitting the game. A handsome pearl-handled revolver, pedigree unknown, went by the board for an advance of $25. It was spoken of as "the prettiest little cannon" that had been on the market in many moons. Once more the dice cackled, spun across the table, hung poised for an uncertain flash of a second—craps—Timpe was "broke."

That is unless one would be willing to count a few cigars, beer and a little poker sympathy as assets.

Glynn was working at a disadvantage. His $25 would not develop into a roll. Campbell, the lucky man of the trio, was "right," getting the game after a single "pass" for $150. He couldn't get a dime "faded" on his next offer to bet.

He had even then but a small portion of the cash that lay around the table. Gamesters don't get rich feeding money to a winner. "Get off the winner and pound the loser" is their motto.

The background of civilians, young, old, well-dressed and alouchy, feverishly gathered about the table staking $10, $20 or $50 with no hesitation.

The game, strictly speaking, "got good" very early Friday morning. Players warmed up by excitement and whisky, began unbetting, and the bets quickly rose from many dollars. The game was played on the "fading" system, the players betting against one another's money as it is thrown to the center of the table. There was no betting against "the house."

Each player shot in his turn, the dice passing from right to left as the deal goes in a card game.

Sandwiched in between the civilians, with whom they were apparently on the friendliest of terms, Patrolmen Campbell, Timpe and Glynn shot the dice in their turn, betting without hesitation. It was immaterial to them who covered their money. It was immaterial to them whose money they covered. The lust for those tantalizing yellow backs flashed seductively by the "chief" dulled all sense of fear or duty. Campbell had won $180 the night before on a single pass, so perhaps just would again favor at least one of the bluecoats.

As for the civilians, they paid small attention to the bluecoats except to "get down" on a bet that looked "soft," or to exchange gossip of the streets or courts.

Patrolman Timpe, still playing in the hard luck of the night before, sent more than $30 after the $123 loss of Wednesday. Glynn could not connect. A couple of passes in a dozen turns was the best his borrowed money could do.

Two or three strange lambs having been duly sheared and turned adrift with a cordial invitation to call again; the "coopers" having departed to report at the station house, and there being nothing but backers' money in sight, the game was closed and the spoils counted, while the receding "tap-tap-tap" of the night stick sang out "all's well."

PARKS VICTORY OVER BUCHANAN

Foreshadowing the Defeat of the Later in Election for President.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 2.—Samuel Parks, the New York walking delegate, won a personal victory over President Frank Buchanan in the forenoon session today of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. It developed when an amendment to the constitution drawn by J. Dugan of Chicago, a Buchanan adherent, to the effect that no man holding political office could be eligible to representation at any convention of the association or to hold an executive office therein, came up for a vote. It was directed at Richard J. Butler, a member of local No. 2, and an assemblyman from New York City. President Buchanan left the chair and spoke for the amendment, and was followed by Samuel Parks, who opposed it in one of the most ardent speeches of the convention. The amendment was defeated, 15 to 2. One-third of the delegates did not vote.

After the convention adjourned the Parks and Buchanan adherents, to the effect that no man holding political office could be eligible to representation at any convention of the association or to hold an executive office therein, came up for a vote. INTERLEAGUE GAMES.

Today's Schedule.

Pittsburg at Boston.
Brown at Cincinnati.
Cardinals at Cleveland.
Chicago Nationals at White Sox at Chicago.
Philadelphia Athletics vs. Nationals.

Yesterday's Results.

Pittsburg 7, Boston 3.
Cincinnati 7, Brown 6.
Cleveland 5, Cardinals 2.
Chicago Nationals 11, White Sox 0.
Philadelphia Athletics 6, Nationals 0.

BOSTON, Oct. 2.—Speculation on the post-season series took a shift in favor of the Pirates here today, as a result of yesterday's victory of the National leaguers by the score of 7 to 3.

The Boston team had been at even money and better to win the necessary five games first, but Pittsburgh's strong showing has caused a change of front. Several wagers at 10 to 9 and 10 to 8 in favor of Pittsburgh are recorded.

If the Pirates win today's game the Boston end will drop out of sight in the betting.

Today's game will see even a greater turnout of fans than yesterday's, if the park can hold them. Schoolmaster Sam Leever is announced to work for the Pirates, with either Deneen or Hughes opposing.

All Boston is talking about the case of rattles shown by the Boston team in the first inning. Parent and Collins were about the only members of the Boston team that kept their heads, the others going to pieces badly.

In the field the Bostonians could not be certain of anything and at bat Phillips was an eternal mystery. Young undoubtedly would have kept his alibi on earth but for the erring behind him. But one run should have counted in first and the three that followed were due to the ascension of the team, old Cy included.

Two men were easy outs for Boston in the first, and it appeared that Cy was going to be at his best. Then the trouble began. Leach tripped and Wagner's single scored him. Wagner made a daring dash for second and got away with the steal.

Ferris went into the air on a grandstand drive, fumbled and the runner was safe.
Wagner going to third. Bransfield put Criger in the air by a dash for second.
Criger threw to the center field and Wagner scored. Here Young unhit by a ball balloon and soared. He passed Ritchey, Sebring singled, Bransfield scoring. Young had three strikes on him, but Criger resisted the ball and Phillips ended the second with a strike out.

Young Loses Nerve.
Phillips Is Steady.

After that inning Young was ineffective.
His nerve was gone and he was hit freely throughout the game, beside giving two more bases on balls.

Phillips, on the other hand, was steady as a clock and the nervous Beaneaters could not find his curves for needful safeties. Pittsburgh had its total of 7 runs scored before Ferris, one of the best in the seventh when Freeman and Parent both tripled and La Chance drove out a long fly.

In the ninth Boston started again, and on Wagner's head rumbled a ball from Sebring and Ferris, one run tallied. The rally died there.

The consensus of opinion here is that Pittsburg outplayed Boston at all stages, and showed better nerve under fire and under batting.

The fans expect Boston to rally from their nervousness today and one of the most exciting struggles of the year to take place.

BECKLEY SIGNS WITH REDS.

Veteran First Baseman Will Not Come to the Cardinals Next Year.

St. Jacob Beckley is not for the Cardinals.
Reports from Cincinnati yesterday state that the veteran first baseman has signed up for next season with the Reds.
Beckley will not play for the Cardinals this season, according to reports, his injury from the spiking given him yesterday by Wallace being so severe as to keep him out of the game. Kelley will probably supplant him on the first sack.

ALWAYS TIRED
NEVER RESTED

To be tired out from hard work or bodily exercise is natural and rest is the remedy, but there is an exhaustion without physical exertion and a tired never-rested feeling—a weariness without work that is unnatural and shows some serious disorder is threatening the health. One of the chief causes of that "Always-tired, never-rested condition" is impure blood and bad circulation.
Unless the body is nourished with rich, pure blood there is lack of nervous force, the muscles become weak, the digestion impaired, and general disorder occurs throughout the system. Debility, insomnia, nervousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, strength and energy, and the hundreds of little ailments we often have are due directly to a bad condition of the blood and circulation, and the quickest way to get rid of them is by purifying and building up the blood, and for this purpose no remedy equals
S. S. S., which contains the best ingredients for cleansing the blood and toning up the system. It is a vegetable blood purifier and tonic combined, that enriches the blood and through it the entire system is nourished and refreshing sleep comes to the tired, never-rested body.

SIEVER WEAKENS AND LOSES GAME

Browns Have Contest With Reds Well in Hand Until the Eighth Inning—Will Try Again.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 2.—The Reds of the National League and the St. Louis Browns of the American League conclude their two-game series here this afternoon. Either Wright or Petty will work for the visitors and Phillips for the Reds.

Yesterday's game resulted in a spectacular contest which was won by the Red-landers, score 7 to 6. At the end of the first half of the ninth the Browns had a one-run lead. A rally by the Reds netted two runs off Morgan, winning the game.

SHOE MEN PLAY LAST GAME

The final game of the Boot and Shoe League series will be played Saturday at Pastime Park, the game commencing at 3 o'clock. The Tennents and Browns are fighting for the silver cup offered for the Boot and Shoe League championship, and are playing the final two out of three games at the pastime.

The first of the series was played Sept.
19 and Browns won 7 to 4. Last Saturday the Tennents won 4 to 3. The game was very exciting and Browns were ahead up to the ninth inning, when the Tennents made four runs and won the game. Kumpf, the Tennent pitcher, struck out 12 men, having five putouts and four assists.

The teams will line up as follows:
Tennents—Kumpf, p.; Belleville ss.; Dohl
2b.; Tennent rf.; Roberts 3b.; Phillips 1b.;
Nash c.; Henry cf.; Weber lf.
Browns—Riley ss.; Crow c.; Carroll p.;
Kurtz cf.; Holliman 1b.; Baker 2b.; Hor-

CARDINALS PLAY CLEVELAND AGAIN

Donovan's St. Louis Boys Put Up Fair Ball in Opening Game, but Succumb to the Blues.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 2.—Cleveland
American and St. Louis National teams will play their second and last inter-league game here this afternoon, weather permitting. Joss will probably be sent to the rubber for Cleveland while Hackett, the golden-haired, is scheduled to work for the visitors. Tonight the club leaves for St.
Louis, where the post-season series with the Browns opens Saturday.

Yesterday's game between the Blues and Cardinals was closer than the local fans expected to see. The Cardinals descended on Mr. Glendon for two singles and a double in the first inning, scoring one run. It appeared that the Cards coast man was in for a hard bumping, but he straightened up and pitched a battle with the time annexing one more tally—the last of the game.

Murphy lasted two innings in front of the heavy-hitting Clevelanders, when a pounding of his curve netted three runs enough to win. Later they batted in two more runs in the field but had the Cards coast man time annexing one more tally—the last of the game.

The Browns looked the stronger of the two teams all the while the game was on.
Morgan, who replaced Siever in the eighth and ninth, scored five runs in the eighth and ninth. Morgan, who replaced Siever in the eighth and ninth, scored five runs in the eighth and ninth. Morgan, who replaced Siever in the eighth and ninth, scored five runs in the eighth and ninth.

GREAT POOL PLAYERS GATHER

Preparations for the world's championship pool tournament, to take place in the "academy" of the Broadway middle of the present month, have been practically completed, except the naming of the date.

Grant Eby, present holder of the championship of the world, has been in the city since Monday, ready for the event. John Horton, one of the top-notch performers in the game, will arrive Saturday. Kid Huston is already here and other contenders will arrive to participate in the event will be on hand soon.

A preliminary tournament, to serve as a practice event for the main game, will be held at the Broadway middle to the championship of the world. The game will be

"BROWNS OUGHT TO WIN THE SERIES"

Assistant Secretary Mercer Admits It Will Be No Walk-Away—
Donovan Has Hopes.

Upsets in yesterday's inter-league postseason games were so numerous in favor of the National League that local fans are beginning to waver in their belief that the Browns will run away with the series against the Cardinals, which will open here tomorrow at Sportsman Park.

Out of five contests between teams of the two leagues, the National teams won three. The Cardinals also gave the Browns a run before yielding to defeat and, in general, played better baseball than was expected of them.

The Browns, on the other hand, lost to Cincinnati after it appeared they had the game won. The team was four runs in the lead at the end of the first half of the eighth, but lost the contest.

Assistant Secretary Sidney Mercer of the National League, who is in town concluding arrangements for tomorrow's contest, thinks it by no means a walk-away that the Browns will take the series right off the reel.

The Cardinals have two men who will be hard for the Browns to beat. They are Brown and McFarland. I was with the Cardinals early this season and have seen them follow the work of these two twice. They are both first-class men.

"Donovan will probably give them as much work in the series as they can stand and they will always be dangerous.
I look for two strictly first-class baseball games Saturday and Sunday. We will send in Powell and Sudhoff to oppose Brown and McFarland, probably Powell against Brown.

"Still, the Browns ought to win the series. Their work has been consistently good since their recovery from the bad slump of the mid-season. Swander, Bowcock and Hill have braced the team immensely and the fans will at least have an opportunity of getting a line on a good season team—which will be a good one."

Manager P. J. Donovan will hardly be able to get into any of the post-season games unless a miracle happens.
The Cardinals' lead is thin as a rail and yellow with malaria, and could not do himself justice if he attempted to play. He will direct his team from the bench.

"If my men play ball," said P. J. Donovan, "the Browns will know they have been in a contest every time. I think we will get together and tan these Browns, just to show that the American League right straight through is not so strong as it's cracked up to be.

"The way the Pirates, Chicago Nationals and Reds put it over their opponents yesterday shows that the boasted superiority of the American League is, after all, a myth.

"Brown or McFarland will work tomorrow, and either can beat the Browns as can our other pitchers.
The recent work of the Cardinals has not been the mid-season work. Swander, Bowcock and Hill have braced the team immensely and the fans will at least have an opportunity of getting a line on a good season team—which will be a good one."

Hermis Makes a New Record.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Hermis has strengthened his claim to be considered one of the greatest horses in the country. At Morris Park yesterday, with 184 pounds up, he broke the track record for a mile and an eighth by a full second and a quarter.
His time was 1:52, and, weight considered, this was a magnificent performance.

Company L on Practice March.

Company L, 1st Infantry, will go on practice march Sunday morning at 8 in order to introduce themselves to their new equipment of Krag-Jorgensen rifles, issued last night. Capt. Samuel Rosenfeld and Lieut. Philo M. Buck and Louis J. Eibrecht will be in command. Company L has recently rearranged and refurnished its quarters in the Exposition building and will give a stag affair later in the month.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY.

So Thinks At Least One Traveling Man.

I would as soon think of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding houses. I have to eat good, bad and indifferent food at all hours of the day and night and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest, anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakers, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work when I need it, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for them ever since, and when I stop to think that that is what I spend every day for cigars, I feel like shaking hands with myself for I can keep my stomach and digestion in first class order for fifty cents a month. I don't care for any better life insurance.

My druggist tells me they are the most popular of all stomach medicines and that they have maintained their popularity and success because they do as advertised. They bring results, and results are what count in patent medicine as much as in selling barware.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

A Boy of Fifteen, Vomiting Quantities of Blood, and Given Up by Doctors to Die in Last Stages of Consumption, Marvelously Cured by

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKY.

A LETTER FROM HIS FATHER.

Dear Sirs—"My son Alfred is fifteen years and six months old. He had heart disease very bad, but I never knew he had consumption until the doctor said so. Six weeks ago he vomited a large quantity of blood, and for three weeks had hemorrhages three or four times a week. I had a doctor, and he prescribed medicines that I bought. I don't know the names of them, but they did the boy no good; the blood kept on coming in large quantities. Doctor said it was no use to come, he could do no good. He said it was a question of but a few days. I then had to tell him how my son was getting on, and he would write me another prescription. The case was very bad, and I called in another doctor. He, too, said he could do nothing for the boy would die. For a month he could not lie down. I had used Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky eight years ago for my wife, and she got well, so I thought, as the second doctor said it was no use to come, I would try Duffy's. I had used three bottles, according to directions, one teaspoonful to three or four water, and in two weeks the hemorrhages had stopped and he had had none since. He was eating and his appetite was good, and he is improving by leaps and bounds. I need scarcely say he is a living wonder. I had been told up, but, thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky, he is living, free from the dread of consumption." JAMES CLARK, 215 Hoyne Avenue, Chicago.

A WONDERFUL CURE, almost beyond belief, yet Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky has cured thousands of just such cases—men, women and children given up to die of so-called incurable consumption.

ACQUINIAN PURE & UNADULTERATED TRADE MARK

tion. Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky not only drives out consumption germs and bores the lungs, but it builds up new tissue and renovates the entire system. It aids digestion, stimulates and enriches the blood, tones up the heart, quiets the nerves, invigorates and builds up the body so that it will throw off all disease. At the Medical Convention in Albany one of the leading doctors said it would rather have Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky to cure consumption, catarrh, asthma, grip, pneumonia, coughs, colds and diseases of the throat and lungs than all the quack medicines in the world, and the doctors present agreed with him unanimously. It is also prescribed by doctors for indigestion, dyspepsia, and every form of stomach trouble; malaria and all low fevers. Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is good for old and young. It has carried the blessing of health to hundreds of thousands of sufferers.

Duffy's is absolutely pure, contains no rum or alcohol and is the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine. It is a guarantee. It is used exclusively in all hospitals.

CAUTION—When you ask for Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky be sure you get the genuine. Unscrupulous dealers, who are not of the excellence of this preparation, will try to sell you cheap imitations and adulterated whiskeys, which are put on the market for profit only, and which, far from relieving the sick, are positively harmful. Demand "Duffy's" and be sure you get it. It is the only absolutely pure malt whiskey sold in sealed bottles with the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and with the cork sealed with the work is unbroken. Beware of refilled bottles.

Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct by a bottle. Interesting medical book sent on request to any address. Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky Co., St. Louis, Mo.

BOBB LAWSUIT IS STILL IN COURT

Only a Minor Part of the Justly Famous Litigation Has Been Settled.

HAS RUN THIRTY-FOUR YEARS

Determination to Collect Every Cent of Judgment "Has Cost More Than Amount Sought."

The longest case in litigation known in this or any other country, according to lawyers, is still before the courts. It was the suit of Bobb versus Bobb, which has been in the courts for 34 years. One of the collateral cases growing out of the original suit was settled by compromise in the circuit court last Tuesday, when the Missouri Pacific railroad paid John R. Bobb a certain sum to drop the suit against it in order to perfect its title to certain property against which suit had been brought to satisfy the original judgment.

This action does not settle the Bobb suit and attorneys for it will not be settled as long as a piece of real property belonging to an inventory of his wealth and which he can be found.

The story of the celebrated Bobb controversy is as follows: In 1869 Charles Bobb, a pioneer of St. Louis, having grown rich, determined to insure his wife and children against any loss of fortune that might come to him. Consequently he made an inventory of his wealth and divided it into two equal parts, one of which he retained for himself for the further pursuit of business, conveying the other half to his cousin, Miss Hanna Letcher, as a trust for his wife and children.

A few months later Miss Letcher conveyed the property back to him as trustee for his wife and children. That is the trust estate that has been fought over for 34 years.

For a number of years Charles Bobb operated his own business and that of the trust and both prospered.

Son Demands an Accounting.

In 1893 Charles Bobb's wife died, and three years later he married again. By his first wife he had five children, Charles, George, L., John H., Lucy G. and Cora Taylor.

John H. Bobb asked for an accounting of the estate in 1898. The defendants were his father and the other four children. He alleged that his father was indebted to the estate in the sum of $40,000. A feeling of bitter enmity sprang up between father and son, and each vowed to fight to the end. The father did not long ago, and his wife soon followed. But that did not end the fight against the estate. The suits growing out of it have twice been taken to the United States supreme court. Out of the first judgment of $32,000 obtained against it, John Bobb has collected about $25,000 in property and cash. At that time John Bobb said: "If there is any property on which I have collected every dollar of it. According to his attorney, Thomas J. Rowe, this declaration still stands."

When the suit for an accounting was first brought in 1899 it was referred to Judge Roderick E. Rombauer as referee, and then began the contest which has made it remarkable, not only as a bitter fight between father and son, but because of the length of time consumed in fighting it.

So tangled were the accounts of the estate that it took Judge Rombauer seven years to straighten them out, and he then awarded judgments of $6,000 in favor of the children. These awards were confirmed by the Circuit Court, and nine years after the suit was filed the Supreme Court affirmed the decision of the lower court. John Bobb then purchased the claims of "John" Taylor and Charles Bobb. John Bobb discovered that his father had converted his realty into stocks, bonds and cash. He believed that some of the conversions were not in good faith and that the title of real estate of real estate never passed from his father, but went into the hands of fictitious trustees. That is why so many suits were brought to reform the judgment. He was endeavoring to have the transfers on which he had collected faith and having been made to defeat the collection of the judgment.

Second Wife's Income Grows.

Charles Bobb's second wife brought him $200. This suddenly began to swell until in a few years it began to yield an income of $600 a year, a fact to which Mrs. Bobb testified. Then John Bobb began to bring suits to subject property held in the name of his father and other persons to the payment of the original judgment. Three of them were brought in succession. The last of the three was decided Tuesday. Each of them was decided in favor of John Bobb.

But the judgment has not been satisfied. Every dollar of it has not yet been collected.

More than three years of actual court days have been expended in trying this case. The costs on both sides for attorneys and court costs far exceed the original judgment. The testimony, records and arguments taken in them would make a library of more than 500 royal octavo volumes.

The following learned jurists have passed on the original cause and collateral suits: Judge Roderick E. Rombauer and B. Gratz Brown, referees, and on the bench Judges George A. Magill, John Wickham, F. M. Black of supreme court; Leroy B. Valliant, J. L. Thomas, Chief Justice Fuller of the supreme court; J. E. Witterton, D. D. Fisher and Jesse A. McDonald.
